Index

Action potentials, 352, 391, 393, 509 latency fluctuation, 435	partitioned errors, 171, 172, 173 pooled errors, 171–173
neural mass models, 417	Satterthwaite approximation, 143
Affine transformation, 12, 50	two-way, 166, 170–173, 183
inter-subject registration, 76, 77, 78	types, 166
inverse, 52	Anatomical models, 4, 32, 33–34, 63
left-/right-handed coodinate system, 54	Bayesian inversion, 7
rigid body transformations, 52, 53, 54	spatial normalization, 10, 12, 14, 63 small deformation models, 67, 71	Aphasia, 488
Age-related morphometric changes, 92	Associative plasticity, 475, 481
AIR, 59, 67	Attention, 215, 483, 508, 528
Akaike information criteria, 459, 460, 461, 578	functional selectivity, 451
Alpha rhythms, 431	to visual motion, 298-299, 451, 485-486, 512, 514, 515, 516, blood-oxygenation-level-dependent (BOLD) signal	520, 537, 542, 556–559 correlations, 410	dynamic causal model, 40-41, 461-463
neural mass models, 415, 416, 418	Attentional gain, 432, 435
Alzheimer's disease, 55, 98	Auditory cortex, 345, 486, 553
AMOS, 514	Auditory stimulation, 20, 319, 326
AMPA (fast excitory) receptors/channels, 394, 399, 402, 403,	oddball experiments, 487-488, 571-573
474, 528, 530	mismatch negativity, 391
Anaerobic brain hypothesis, 340	Autoregressive models, 509
Analysis of covariance, 5, 17	moving average, 253
by group, 116	multivariate see Multivariate autoregressive models
by subject, 115–116	Autoregressive plus white noise model, 121, 123, 124,
one-way, 118	185, 287
removal of movement-related artefacts, 58
voxel-wise model, 3	B-splines, 51
Analysis of variance, 3, 4, 108, 130, 166–177	deformation models between-subject, 166, 167–168	basis functions, 71–72
F-contrast, 167–168	segmentation, 88
F-tests, 166	event-related potential modelling, 328
mixed designs, 166	Balloon model, 182, 339, 341, 342–343, 348, 442 model evidence, 457	blood-oxygenation-level-dependent (BOLD) response, 187 multiway, 173–175	haemodynamic extension see Haemodynamic model partitioned errors, 174–175	non-linear evoked responses, 341–343, 347
non-sphericity, 169–170, 172, 175	Volterra series expansion, 341, 342, 343, 348
notation, 167	Balloon-Windkessel model see Balloon mode one-way, 103–104, 107, 167–170	Baseline, 128 random effects analysis, 162	Basic models, 117–118 repeated measures (within-subject), 141–142, 166, 168–173,	Basis functions
176–177, 183	covariance component decomposition, 151

Basis functions (Continued)	Bias artefact (image intensity non-uniformity) deformation models	bias field estimates, 85, 86, 87 radial, 71	correction, 82–84
small deformation approach, 67, 69, 70–72	image intensity histograms, 83 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 175	parametric models, 83–84 linear time-series model, 120	segmentation optimization, 86, 87 highpass filtering, 184	Bilinear interpolation, 50
positron emission tomography, 112	Bilinear models, 511–512 temporal see Temporal basis functions Bayes factors, 457–458, 461, 462, 463, 464, 579	approximating functions, 509–510 effective connectivity, 508, 509
p -values comparison, 458	contextual input-dependent effects, 511, 512, 513
Bayes' theorem, 64	coupling, 512
Bayesian inference, 34–35, 148, 230, 275, 276–277, 300, 301,	psychophysiological interactions, 513, 514
445, 590	static models, 513 dynamic causal models, 544, 568–569	see also Dynamic causal models dynamic models inversion, 441	functional integration, 39–40, 41 haemodynamic model, 445, 446–447	functional magnetic resonance imaging see Dynamic hierarchical models	causal models linear, 280, 286	state equation, 511
two-level, 149	Biophysical models, 32, 37–38, 182
model averaging, 460	input-state-output systems, 37–38, 597–599
model selection, 454	non-linear systems identification, 38
multivariate autoregressive models, 536	Block study designs, 27, 28, 114, 195-196, 200, 201, 203, 204
object perception, 479	noise variance, 205
posterior probabilities, 276, 295	Blood-oxygenation-level-dependent (BOLD) response, 25, 37, posterior probability maps, 16, 34, 35, 300	178, 313
priors, 295, 296	balloon model see Balloon model single-subject responses, 290	bilinear models, 40 spatially regularized general linear model, 317	canonical haemodynamic response function, 181
spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 328	convolution models, 178
Bayesian information criteria, 459, 461, 578	dynamic causal models, 545
Bayesian model averaging, 154, 325, 460, 465	attentional effects, 556–559
Bayesian model comparisons, 456	conventional analysis comparison, 549–550
Bayesian model selection, 456	haemodynamic state equations, 546
Bayesian models, 7–8, 16	likelihood model, 546–547 blood-oxygenation-level-dependent (BOLD) response, 182	neuronal state equations, 545–546 dynamic models inversion, 441	noise effects, 552 historical aspects, 7–8	priors, 547–548 likelihood, 64	simulations, 550–552
model selection/averaging, 454–466	single word processing analysis, 553–556 multivariate autoregressive models, 536, 538, 539	dynamic model inversion, 441 posterior probability, 64	energy dissipation correlations, 407, 408 alternative models comparison, 78 maps, 16, 34	effect of activation, 408–409, 411 event models, 196 predictive coding, 479	experimental design, 119, 199
prior probability, 64	stimulus presentation rate, 38 spatial normalization, 14	factors influencing blood oxygenation, 340
see also Empirical Bayes; Variational Bayes	functional magnetic resonance imaging regressors, 119, Beamformer predictions, 329	120, 121
oscillatory source localization, 388	gamma functions, 181
Belief propagation algorithm, 148, 154–155, 466	glutamate release, 407 model averaging, 454, 460	haemodynamic model, 343–346 model evidence, 456	balloon component, 343–344, 347
model selection, 454	experimental results, 347–348
Bending boundary conditions, 71	regional cerebral blood flow component, 344–346
Bending energy, 66, 76, 77	Volterra kernels estimation, 346–347
minimization, 63	high-reolutiuon basis functions, 120
Benjamini and Hochberg false discovery rate method, 248-249	iterative fitting techniques, 182
Best linear unbiased estimates, 103	linear time-invariant models, 179

local field notantials relationship 406	Brain tumours, 55
local field potentials relationship, 406	• neural activity relationship, 339, 340–350	Brainstem auditory evoked potentials, 562
electrophysiological measures, 341	BrainWeb MR simulator, 88–89 linear assumptions, 340, 341	Broca's area, 488 magnetic field effects, 340–341 modelled time course, 341	Canonical variate analysis, 39, 502, 503–504
non-linear convolution models, 186–187	•
non-linearities, 179, 340, 346	applications, 505 evoked responses, 341–343, 347	Cardiac/respiratory biorhythm artefacts, 183, 200, 313 peak latency differences, 179	highpass filtering, 123
post-stimulus undershoot, 178, 343, 345, 346, 347, 349, 443,	Case studies, 156
450–451	Categorical experimental designs, 20 principle, 340	Category selection, 569–570
sampling rate, 197	event-related potentials, 561 saturation, 179, 186–188, 203, 551	visual pathway, 570–571 shape estimation methods, 180-183	Causal models, 32
synaptic activity modelling, 341, 343	see also Dynamic causal models time series event-related study, 188-191	Causes and brain function, 476–477 categorical model, 188–190	inference, 477
parametric model, 190–191	conditional expectation, 477 timing error/slice timing correction, 120, 121	non-linearities (interactions), 476 variability, 178–179, 182, 183	predictive coding, 478–479
see also Functional magnetic resonance imaging	recognition from sensory data, 476-477, 478, 479, 500
Bonferroni correction, 4, 18, 34, 96, 214, 223, 224–226, 238,	Cellular plasticity, 475
250, 276	Central limit theorem, application to spatial independence of observations, 225-226	smoothing, 13–14, 95
maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 234	Cerebrospinal fluid, image segmentation, 84, 85, 93 maximum test statistic, 232, 233	Chaotic itinerancy, 423, 523
random field thresholds comparison, 228	Chaotic transience, 423
Boundary conditions	Circulant boundary conditions, 70
electro-encephalography boundary element	Closed field configuration, 352 method, 354	Cluster analysis, 39
small deformation models, 70–71	Cluster-level inference, 19, 237–238, 239, 240 bending, 71	power analysis, 243, 244
circulant, 70	voxel-based morphometry, 97 sliding, 71	Cognitive conjunction, 20, 194
Boundary element method, 353	Cognitive subtraction, 5, 20 analytical equation, 354–355	confounds, 193
analytical solution, 363–364	context-sensitive functional specialization, 483–484 matrix form, 360–361	factorial experimental design, 22 numerical solution, 356–363	single-factor subtraction design, 193 partial solutions for electrode sites, 362–363	Common effect, 174 partial solutions for scalp, 362	Computational anatomy, 11–14 analytical equation approximation, 356	Conditional parameter inference, 454, 455–456 centre of gravity method, 356, 357, 359, 361	linear models, 455–456 constant potential at vertices method, 356	non-linear models, 456 linear potential at vertices method, 356, 357–358,	variance components, 456
359–360, 361	Confounds
current source model, 356–357	cognitive subtraction, 193
electro-encephalography, 354–355	data analysis, 15 boundary conditions, 354	factor by covariate interactions, 113, 114
Green's theorem, 354	functional magnetic resonance imaging, 25, 119 general linear model, 16
limitations of numerical solution, 364–365	global effects, 109 magneto-encephalography, 355–356	· ·
solid angles calculation, 358–359	positron emission tomography, 113
Boxcar designs, 6, 7, 16, 27 Brain electrical conductivity, 352, 353	Conjunction analyses, 29
Brain electrical conductivity, 352, 353	Connectionism, 33
Brain response modelling, 32–44	Connectivity, 32
Brain shape differences, 63	see also Effective connectivity; Functional connectivity

Context-sensitive responses, 5, 471, 472, 476, 483, 508	neural mass models, 416–421 asynchronous neuronal coupling, 522	surface mapping, 6 bilinear models, 511, 512, 513	Cortical atrophy, 13
cortical connections, 474, 475	Cortical dysplasia, 13 dynamic causal models, 543	Cortical gain control, 408
•
simulations, 550–552	Cortical interneurons, 42, 564
dynamic diaschisis, 488	Cortico-cortical connections, 416–417, 421–423, 472, factorial experimental designs, 22	563–564, 568
functional specialization, 483–484	anatomy/physiology, 473–475 general learning algorithm, 480–481	backward, 473, 474, 475, 477, 480–481, 482, 564
non-linear neuronal coupling, 527	driving, 473, 475 psychophysiological interactions, 514	extrinsic, 473, 565
see also Plasticity	feedback, 482–483
Continuous images, 18–20, 34	forward, 473, 475, 480, 481, 482, 564
Contrast matrices, 106–107, 108, 135, 137	functional assessment with brain imaging, 483-488
Contrast vector, 130	intrinsic, 42, 473, 565
Contrasts, 126–139, 166	lateral, 564 construction, 129–132	learning model implementation, 480-482 design compexity, 137–138	mechanisms of establishment, 475 estimability, 130–131	modulatory, 473, 474, 475, 481 factor by covariate interactions, 114	reciprocal, 473, 480 general linear model, 17	Cosine transform basis functions, 70, 71, 85 inference, 106, 107	inter-subject registration, 77
magneto-/electro-encephalography	Covariance components, 140, 277 event-related responses data, 217–218, 219	estimation, 143–147, 275, 276, 293, 456 time-series models, 215	electro-/magneto-encephalography source reconstruction multivariate spatial models, 213	models, 369, 379–380, 383 multiway within-subject analysis of variance, 177	expectation maximization, 277, 279, 282–283, notation, 138	285, 286–290
positron emission tomography	hierarchical linear models, 279, 280, 281–282, 285 condition-by-replication interactions, 114–115	model whitening approach, 146 multistudy designs, 116	non-sphericity estimate pooling (over voxels), 144 replication (multisubject activation), 114, 115 single subject activation, 111, 112	non-sphericity modelling, 141, 143–144 single subject parametric designs, 112	restricted maximum likelihood, 379, 380, 383 regressor correlations, 136–137	separable errors, 146–147 reparameterized models, 137	simulating noise, 145
spatially regularized general linear model, 317	hierarchical models, 148, 151, 275
	Covariance matrix, 142, 143, 144, 281, 282 subspaces, 139 see also F-contrasts; t-contrasts	electro-/magneto-encephalography source
•	localization, 369
Convolution models, 5, 36–37, 38	Covariates, 127, 128, 129 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 6–7, 178–191,	positron emission tomography 201–203	factor interactions, 113–114 linear time-invariant models, 179	single subject designs, 113
non-linear, 186–188	Crossed cerebellar diaschisis, 488 temporal basis functions, 6–7 see also Generalized convolution models	Determination
Correlation coefficients, 16	Data analysis
Cortex	principles, 10–11
connectivity see Cortico-cortical connections;	spatial transforms, 11–14
Thalamo-cortical connections	Dead time minimization, 200 functional segregation, 33–34, 472	Deformation field, 14 hierarchical organization, 22, 421, 473, 480, 481–482,	Deformation models, 67
508, 563	evaluation, 77, 78
empirical Bayes, 479, 482	internal consistency, 75
models, 421–423	inverse consistency, 75
neuronal state equations, 563–565	large deformation (diffeomorphic) approaches, 72-74
macrocolumn cytoarchitecture, 416-417	morphometry, 14
microcircuits (minicolumns), 417, 418	notation, 67

segmentation	recogness energy (newer) estimation 281 282 optimization, 86, 87–88	response energy (power) estimation, 381–382 restricted maximum likelihood, 369–370, 378–380, spatial priors, 85	383, 388
small deformation approach, 67–72	single trial models, 381–382 basis functions, 67, 69, 70–72	temporal basis functions, 378, 380–381, 388 boundary conditions, 70–71	weighted minimum norms, 367, 368–369, 377, 378 spatial normalization, 75, 77	Dummy variables, 102
Degrees of freedom, 144, 145, 146, 199	Dynamic causal models, 7, 32, 36–37, 38, 335, 392, 414, 460–463,
F-statistic, 143	598–599
non-sphericity correction, 144, 145, 170	attentional modulation (visual motion), 40-41, 461-463
Delta functions, 200	Bayes factors, 457, 461, 462, 463, 579 event-related functional magnetic resonance imaging, 195	Bayesian inference, 544, 568–569
Delusions, 498	Bayesian inversion, 544, 545, 562, 567
2-Deoxyglucose uptake, 339–340	bilinear approximation, 39–40, 41, 42, 543–544
Design matrix, 34	effective connectivity modelling, 541, 542, 545, 562 analysis of variance	electro-/magneto-encephalography, 561–575
one-way between-subject, 167, 168	auditory oddball experiment, 571–573
one-way within-subject, 169	dimension reduction, 567
two-way (repeated measures) within-subject, 172, 173	empirical studies, 569–573 confounds, 96	likelihood model, 567
general linear model see General linear model	observational equations, 566–567 hierarchical linear models, 278	priors, 567–568, 573 stochastic versus deterministic study design, 26	visual pathway category selectivity, 570-571
voxel-based morphometry, 96	estimation scheme, 549, 550, 568
Deterministic study design, 26	event-related potentials, 561, 562, 565-566, 568
Dice metrics, 88, 89	evoked responses, 541–542
Diffeomorphic (large deformation) registration, 72–74	experimental design, 542–544
greedy 'viscous fluid' method, 72–73	functional integration, 39–42 internal consistency, 75	functional magnetic resonance imaging, 460, 541–560, 575, inverse deformation, 73	577–584 measures of difference between shapes, 74	attentional effects (construct validity), 556–559
Diffeomorphisms, 67	Bayesian model selection, 577–579
Differential effect, 174, 175	conventional analysis comparison, 549–550
Diffusion tensor imaging, 54	inter-hemispheric integration, 580–581, 582–583
Diffusion weighted images, 75, 92	noise effects, 552
Disconnection syndromes, 33, 472	priors, 547, 548
Discrete cosine transformation	reproducibility, 555–556 functional magnetic resonance imaging low frequency drifts	simulations (face validity), 550–552 removal, 314	single word processing analysis (predictive validity), highpass filtering, 123, 184 Discrete local maxima method, 233	553–556 haemodynamic state equations, 546
Distributed source localization models,	inference, 11, 544, 549, 568–569 electro-/magneto-encephalography, 367, 368, 377–389	likelihood model, 546–547 applications, 383–388	model evidence, 461–462, 569, 573, 578 simulated data, 384–386	computation, 459 single subject magneto-encephalography data, 386–388	model selection, 568, 569, 577–579 covariance components estimation, 379–380, 383, 388	neural mass models, 42–43, 421, 422 empirical Bayes approach, 369	neuronal state equations, 545–546, 563–565 evoked responses, 378	perceptual learning, 487–488 functional magnetic resonance imaging-based	principle, 562–563
priors, 369, 374	structural equation modelling, 41–42 induced responses, 378	theory, 544–550, 563 linear approaches, 367–375	Dynamic diaschisis, 488, 489 electro-encephalography simulations, 372–374	Dynamic mean fields, 399 magneto-encephalography simulations, 370–372	Dynamic models inversion, 441–452
multitrial models, 382–383	Bayesian inference, 441 evoked responses, 382-383	conditional densities, 441
induced responses, 383	dynamic causal models, 544, 545, 562, 567
oscillatory activity, 388	haemodynamic model, 445–446

Dynamic models inversion (Continued)	computational models, 391–392
multiple input study, 451	covariance components, 277 single input study, 449–451	data analysis, 10, 11
Dynamical systems	distributed modelling see Distributed source brain function, 522	localization models identification, 508–509	dynamic causal models see Dynamic causal models models, 592–602	forward models, 352–365 boundary element method approach, 354–355
Esha planar imaging	Maxwell's equations, 352, 353–354
Echo-planar imaging	forward problem, 352, 353
slice acquisition time, 182, 197	functional magnetic resonance imaging measures integration temporal interpolation, 198–199	see Functional magnetic resonance imaging spatially regularized general linear model	hidden Markov models, 311 event-related responses, 320	hierarchical models see Hierarchical models null data, 318	historical aspects, 8
Effective connectivity, 32, 38–39, 392, 472, 492, 493, 508–521,	inverse problem, 352, 353, 367, 377, 407
522–532, 593–594	lead field, 352
asynchronous coupling, 522	mass-univariate models, 213–124, 216 bilinear models, 508, 509, 511, 512, 513, 514	mathematical models, 391, 392 brain imaging in assessment, 484–486	multivariate models, 212–213 causal inferences, 476, 483	vectorized forms, 213, 214 cellular plasticity, 475	neuronal models see Neural mass models definitions, 492	notation, 212 dynamic causal models, 41, 541, 542, 545, 561–562	principle, 391 dynamic models, 516–521	source reconstruction see Source reconstruction ensemble dynamics, 523	spatial data, 211, 212–214 functional integration, 475–476	spatial models, 212–214 generalized convolution models, 518–521, 522	spatio-temporal model see Spatio-temporal model for Kalman filter, 516–517	electro-encephalography multivariate autoregressive models, 517–518, 534, 537–540	temporal models, 212, 214–218 neural mass models, 420	three sphere shell model, 363–364, 365 neuronal transients, 522	time as dimension of response variable, 212, 214, 215 non-linear coupling, 485–486, 522, 523, 527–528	time as experimental effect/factor, 212, 214, 215, 216 asynchronous interactions, 528	experimental design issues, 216-217 modulatory interactions, 532, 543	see also Event-related fields; Event-related potentials simulated neuronal populations model, 528–531	Empirical Bayes, 7, 35, 38, 151-154, 275-294 psychophysiological interactions, 484, 513–514	cortical hierarchies, 479, 482 static models, 512–515	electro-/magneto-encephalography source reconstruction linear, 513	models, 326, 367–375, 378–379, 388 structural equation modelling, 514–515	equal variance model, 152–153 synaptic plasticity, 475	hierarchical models, 295, 296, 297, 367, 369 synchronous interactions, 522, 523	fitting/inference, 148
Volterra formulation, 519-520, 521, 522, 525	linear models, 278, 280-281, 283, 284-286
Efficiency, study design issues, 26–27	hyperparameters estimation, 447, 456 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 22-23, 193-209	learning, 471, 476
Eigenimage analysis, 493, 494–496, 502, 504	neuronal implementation in brain, 476, 479-480 functional integration modelling, 39	random effects analysis, 156, 158–161, 163 generalized eigenimages, 497–498	unbalanced designs, 159–160
generalized eigenvector solution, 497, 498	separable models, 153 limitations, 500	serial correlations, 6
Eigenimages, 492, 493–494	spatial normalization, 76 canonical variate analysis, 504	variational Bayes, 456 dimension reduction, 502–503	Ensemble learning see Variational Bayes multivariate analysis, 502	Ensemble (population) dynamics, 391, 523
Eigenvariates, 494, 495	neuronal interactions, 523
Electro-encephalography	see also Population density models activation effects on spectral profile, 409–410, 411	Entropy correlation coefficient, 59 analysis of variance, 166	Epoch-related study design, 10, 26, 196
Bayesian inversion of models see Empirical Bayes	trial duration, 197
,	,

EQS, 514	experimental effects, 216
Equal variance model, 152–153	hierarchical modelling, 216–217
Equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388	spatio-temporal models, 215
Error covariance, 277	temporal effects, 216 conditional parameter inference, 456	spatially regularized general linear model, 319-320 hierarchical models, 148, 279, 280, 281, 282, 285	null data, 318 posterior density conditional estimators, 296-297, 298	see also Event-related fields; Event-related potentials serial correlations, 121–122, 123, 287	Event-related synchronization, 391, 430, 437
spatio-temporal data, 214–216	neural mass models, 416
Error variance, 15, 140	Evidence framework, 151
data analysis, 16	Evoked responses, 4, 391, 414 estimation methods, 28	dynamic causal models, 541–542 multistudy/multisubject designs, 116	functional magnetic resonance imaging/electromagnetic non-sphericity, 140–141	measures integration, 406–407 pooled versus partitioned errors, 171-173	magneto-/electro-encephalography, 219 within-subject versus between-subject variability, 28	distributed source reconstruction model, 378, 382–383, 388
see also Error covariance	neural mass models, 430–431
Euler characteristic, 18, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240	non-linear blood-oxygenation-level-dependent (BOLD)
Event-related designs, 6, 10, 26, 195, 196	responses (balloon model), 341–343 advantages, 196	Exceedance mass, 259
functional magnetic resonance imaging see Functional	Exchangeability, 255, 256 magnetic resonance imaging	Expectation maximization, 283, 284, 305, 603–605
highpass filtering, 123	Bayesian inversion models, 367, 446–447, 448 randomized designs, 195, 196	covariance components estimation, 275, 277, 279, 282–283, stimulus onset asynchrony, 187–188	285, 286–290, 293
trial duration, 196–197	functional magnetic resonance imaging serial correlations, Event-related desynchronization, 391, 411, 430, 437	286, 287–288
neural mass models, 416	dynamic causal models, 422
Event-related fields, 561	estimation scheme, 549, 568
neural mass models, 414, 418, 421	free energy formulation, 282–283, 478, 486–487
phase-resetting, 427–428	general least squares parameter estimates, 289
Event-related potentials, 15, 195, 196, 324, 391, 403, 561	general linear model, 17, 35 dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 565–566, 568	generalized, 447 auditory oddball experiment, 571–573	hyperparameter estimation, 297, 446–447, 456 empirical studies, 569–573	inference/learning modelling, 477–478, 486–487 visual pathway category selectivity, 561, 570–571	non-linear models, 611–613 evoked power, 432–434	dynamic, 446–447, 448 induced responses, 431–436	restricted maximum likelihood, 379 driving inputs, 432, 434, 436	segmentation optimization, 86 dynamic effects, 431–432, 433–434, 435, 436–437	temporal non-sphericity correction, 215 modulatory effects, 432, 434, 436	Expectations, 164–165
oscillations modelling, 434–436	Experimental design, 20–28, 101, 126 power, 432–434, 436 structural effects, 431–432, 433–434, 435, 436–437	contrast specification, 137–138 dynamic causal models, 542–544 mismatch negativity, 486, 487 neural mass models see Neural mass models	efficiency, 7, 26–27
phase-resetting, 427–428	epoch-related, 26 simulations, 428–430	event-related, 26
spatio-temporal model, 325	functional magnetic resonance imaging see Functional damped sinusoid models, 326–327	magnetic resonance imaging face processing data analysis, 333–334	historical aspects, 5 simulated data analysis, 332–333	multiple subjects, 156 temporal priors, 326	null events, 205, 208–209
wavelet models, 327–328	principles, 10
Event-related responses	repeated measures, 141 functional magnetic resonance imaging	stimulus onset asynchrony, 26–27 temporal basis functions, 7	taxonomy, 193–195 variance component estimation, 290–291	Extra sum of squares, 106, 167
magneto-/electro-encephalography, 211, 218–219	Extrastriate cortex, 20

F-contrasts, 18, 106, 107, 108, 118, 166,	Finite impulse response models, 16, 37
167–168, 174	parameters estimation, 28 construction/testing, 132–135	selective averaging, 180–181 effects of interest, 167	temporal basis functions, 180–181, 182, 183 functional magnetic resonance imaging basis	First-order hold (trilinear) interpolation, 50 functions, 175	Fisher's exact test, 259
interpretation, 135–136	Fisher's linear discriminant, 504 temporal basis functions, 182	Fixed effect analysis, 7, 11, 28, 29, 35, 156, 158, 279, 285, 296, 297
F-maps, 15, 20–21	functional magnetic resonance imaging, 276
F-statistic, 16, 34, 121, 136, 140	magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical correction for non-sphericity, 142, 143	models, 216, 218 degrees of freedom, 143	positron emission tomography, 114, 161–162 general linear model, 16, 17, 105, 106, 107	Fliess fundamental formula, 524
serial correlations, 122	Focal attention, 416
F-test, 96, 97, 106, 166
	Fokker-Planck equation, 392, 395–396, 403
Face processing, 188–191, 319–320, 333–334, 386–388, 484,	general formulation, 397
569, 570	solutions, 397–398
Factor analysis, 20–21	numerical, 404
Factorial experimental design, 5, 20–22, 166, 175, 193, 194–195	time-dependent, 398 categorical, 193	vector fields derivation, 396–397 context-sensitive functional specialization, 483–484	Forward models interactions, 20–21, 166	electro-/magneto-encephalography, 352–365
F-contrasts construction, 134–135	functional magnetic resonance imaging, 339–350
main effects, 20, 166	Fourier transforms, 198
model evidence, 457	basis functions, 70
parametric, 193	temporal, 180–181, 199 single factor, 194	event-related response data, 217, 219 psychophysiological interactions, 513-514	image re-sampling, 50–51, 52 time series event-related study, 188–191	time-series data, 183, 185, 201–202
False discovery exeedance, 247–248	viscous fluid registration methods, 72
False discovery proportion, 247	Fractional anisotropy, 92, 93
False discovery rate, 230, 235–236, 246–252, 254, 301	Free energy adaptiveness, 250–251	expectation maximization formulation, 478, 486 false discovery exeedance, 247–248	inference/learning modelling, 478, 486–487 false discovery proportion, 247	model evidence (marginal likelihood) relationship, 303-304 false positives control, 246, 247–248	negative, 304, 305, 316, 478 family-wise error rate, 247, 249	Functional connectivity, 32, 33, 34, 38–39, 75, 233, 475–476, methods, 248-249	492–493, 561–562
multiple testing definitions, 246-248	definition, 492 per-comparison error rate, 247, 249	eigenimage analysis, 39, 493, 494-496 rate definition, 247	generalized eigenimages, 497-498 totally null image, 247	independent component analysis, 499, 500-501
False positives (type I error), 34, 141, 223, 238,	multidimensional scaling, 493, 496–497
246, 254	multivariate analysis of covariance, 502-507
false discovery rate see False discovery rate	canonical variate analysis, 503-504 family-wise error see Family-wise error rate	neural mass models, 420–421 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 6	non-linear principal component analysis, 499-500, 501 multiple testing definitions, 246–247	partial least squares, 493, 497 permutation tests, 257–258	patterns of correlated activity measurement, 493 positron emission tomography, 4	Functional integration, 32–33, 471–490, 508, 509, 522, 577
random field theory, 96–97	bilinear models, 40, 41 spatially regularized general linear model, 318	brain imaging in assessment, 483–488 topological inference, 237–238	brain lesion studies, 488–489
Family-wise error rate, 223–224, 226, 238, 239, 246, 247, 249,	dynamic causal models, 39–43
252, 254, 258, 261, 276, 301	effective connectivity, 475–476 strong/weak control methods, 247	eigenimage analysis, 39 totally null image, 247	functional specialization, 472–476
Finite difference method, 353, 354	modelling, 38–44
Finite element method, 353, 354, 365	multivariate autoregressive models, 534
1 mail: 0.00 million, 000, 001, 000	manufacture detoregressive models, sor noural mass models 42, 43	ovnorimental timing 110

neural-mass models, 42–43 neuronal codes, 525	experimental timing, 119 grand mean scaling, 119
Functional magnetic resonance imaging	high-resolution basis functions, 120 analysis of variance, 166	movement-related effects, 121 basis functions, 175	parametric modulation, 120
convolution models, 6–7, 178–191, 201–203	proportional scaling, 119 linear time-invariant models, 179 non-linear, 186–188	motion-related artefacts, 11, 12, 57–58, 121 multisubject design, 286 covariance components, 277 data adjustment, 12	permutation tests, 268–270 multivariate autoregressive models, 534, 537–538, 539–540
data analysis, 10, 15, 16	9
non-parametric, 253	non-sphericity considerations, 6, 286 spatial transforms, 11–14	temporal, 118 Nyquist ghost artefacts, 58 see also Time series	peak-level inference, 243 dynamic causal models see Dynamic causal models	- electro-/magneto-encephalography measures integration,	posterior probability maps, 301–302 repetition time, 119
406–407	-
activation modelling, 408, 410–411	residual artefacts after realignment, 57–58 dimensional analysis, 407–408	serial correlations, 6, 121–122 effects of activation on BOLD signal, 41, 408–409	autoregressive plus white noise model, 121, 123 effects of activation on EEG, 409–410, 411	error covariance matrix estimation, 121–122, 123 empirical evidence, 410–412	ordinary least squares, 121, 123 membrane potential modelling, 407–408, 410	'pre-colouring/pre-whitening' procedures, 6 electro-/magneto-encephalography source localization	slice timing correction, 120 priors, 369, 374	spatio-temporal models see Spatially regularized general linear models event-related, 7, 15, 16, 188–191, 195–199 categorical model, 188–190	temporal filtering, 122, 123
null events, 208–209	temporal filtering, 122–123 number of events, 208	time series see Time series number of experimental conditions, 208	variance components, 7, 286 parametric model, 190–191	two-level model estimation, 290–293 signal processing, 15, 16, 200–203	see also Blood-oxygenation-level-dependent (BOLD) response statistical perspective, 203–205	Functional specialization, 32, 33, 38, 471–472, 508, 577 timing issues, 197–198, 208	anatomical models, 33–34 evoked responses modelling, 5–6, 36	context-sensitive, 483 experimental design, 6, 7, 20–28, 119, 193–209	factorial experimental designs, 483–484 correlations, 205–206	psychophysiological interactions, 484 dead time minimization, 200	cortical segregation, 33–34 efficiency, 201, 202–203, 204, 205–206, 207–208, 209	functional integration, 472–476 noise, 200	segregation, 472
non-linearity effects, 207–208	cortical forward connections, 473–474 number of scans, 199–200	dynamic causal modelling, 41 optimization, 199–209	Fuzzy c-means, 83 trials close together in time, 200 false discovery rate, 251–252	GABA receptors/channels, 394, 402, 403, 474 false positives, 6	GABA-ergic neurons, 417, 528 field inhomogeneity efects, 13	Gain modulation, 434–435, 436 forward models, 339–350	Gauss-Markov estimators, 23, 24, 185, 279, 280, 281, 285, 287, general linear models, 118–124	289, 294, 314, 448
grand mean scaling, 111	Gauss-Newton methods, 55–56, 74, 76, 87, 88, 446–337, 456 historical aspects, 5–7	spatial transforms, 12, 13 image registration, 49	General linear model, 5, 16–18, 34, 35, 36, 38, 101–125, 126, 129, image distortion effects, 63	140, 148, 166, 172, 253, 276, 278
structural/functional, 58–59, 63	adjusted data, 107–108
inter-hemispheric integration, 580	applications, 101 dynamic causal model, 580–581, 582–583	autoregressive models, 517 model selection, 583–584	contrasts, 17–18, 105–106, 107, 108 linear time-series model, 118–121	data analysis, 7 down sampling, 120–121	design matrix, 17–18, 34, 36, 38, 105, 129, 130, 503 down samping, 120–121	acsign mann, 17-10, 34, 30, 30, 103, 127, 130, 303

General linear model (Continued)	perception modelling, 477 constraint terms removal, 104	random effects analysis, 151 covariates, 16, 34	Gibbs sampling, 309 effects of interest, 107	Global activity, 3, 382 factor by covariate interactions, 113	Global normalization, 3, 6 formulation, 102–103	functional magnetic resonance imaging time series, 24, 119 images, 108	positron emission tomography, 109 linear time-series model, 118, 119, 120	analysis of covariance, 110 multiple study designs, 116	proportional scaling, 109–110 multiple subject designs, 115, 161–162	voxel-based morphometry, 96 one-sample t -test, 117, 162	Glutamate receptors, 474, 475 paired t-test, 117	Glutaminergic connections/pathways, 422, 528 partitioning, 105–106, 107	Grand mean scaling, 167 response variable effects, 16 single subject studies, 111, 112, 113	positron emission tomography, 110–111
9	time-series linear model, 119
two-sample t -test, 117, 131 dummy variables, 102	Granger causality, 535, 562 expectation maximization, 18, 35	Greedy 'viscous fluid' registration method, 72–73
-	Greenhouse-Geisser correction, 121, 143, 145, 170, 172, 176, 289 experimental designs, 193 explanatory variables, 102	Greenhouse-Geisser univariate F-test, 141 fitted data, 108	Green's theorem, 354
full model, 106, 107, 108	Grey matter functional magnetic resonance imaging, 118–124,	electrical activity modelling (small current dipoles), 352
448, 449	image segmentation, 84, 85 linear time-series model, 118–121	voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94 hierarchical models, 35	confounds, 96, 97
inference, 105–108	smoothing of images, 94–95
estimable functions, 106	Grubb's exponent, 344, 443, 445 extra sum-of-squares principle, 106 residual sum of squares, 105	Haemodynamic model (extended balloon model), 343-344, operational equations, 16	441, 442–445, 546
overdetermined models, 103, 104	Bayesian inference procedures, 446–447 parameter estimation, 103	blood-oxygenation-level-dependent (BOLD) response, geometrical perspective, 104–105	343–346
linear combinations of estimates, 105	autoregulation, 349, 443, 445 pseudoinverse constraint, 104	deoxyhaemoglobin concentration effects, 344, 347, 348 positron emission tomography see Positron emission	efficacy, 348, 443 tomography	resting oxygen extraction, 350, 443, 445 posterior distribution of parameters, 296	signal decay, 348–349, 443, 445 posterior mode estimation, 447	stiffness parameter, 350 reduced model, 106, 107–108	transit times, 344, 350, 443, 445 response variable, 101–102	validity, 348–350 spatially regularized see Spatially regularized general	Volterra formulation, 346–347, 444–445 linear models	functional magnetic resonance imaging spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 326	dynamic causal models, 460 structural equation modelling (path analysis), 514–515	relation to conventional analysis, 448-449 time-series data, 179, 180	multiple-input-single-output systems, 442, 443 voxel-based morphometry, 93, 95-96	output equation, 443
Generalized convolution models, 509	output non-linearity, 443, 444, 445, 448 effective connectivity modelling, 518-521	priors, 445–446 impulse response function (transfer function), 518	state equations, 443
Volterra formulation, 519–520, 521, 522	Haemodynamic refractoriness, 25, 38, 342, 346, 347, 451
Generalized least squares, 288–289	Haemodynamic response function, 5-6, 178, 518, 519, 520
Generative models, 11	biophysical models, 37, 38
Bayesian approaches, 7, 8	canonical, 133, 175, 179, 181-182, 183, 184, 199, 290, 448 bias (image intensity non-uniformity) correction, 83	contrasts, 133, 136 empirical Bayes, 476	convolution models, 36, 201–203
image segmentation, 81, 82, 89-90	functional magnetic resonance imaging study design, 23 spatial priors, 85	non-linear effects, 38, 180

1. 11 . 7/1,
non-linear models using Voletrra series, 25	spatial normalization, 4 parameterization, 27, 36–37	statistical parametric mapping, 4–5, 14–15 selective averaging, 181	topological inference, 4
study design issues, 27	voxel-wise models, 3, 4 temporal basis functions, 6, 7, 179, 180, 186	Hodgkin-Huxley model neuron, 391, 393 temporal derivative, 120, 121	Hotellings T -square test, 503, 504
Haemodynamic/neuronal response relationship, 4	Houses perception, 569, 570
Hallucinations, 262, 498	Hyperparameter estimation, 140, 141, 456
Head structure modelling, 352–353	electro-/magneto-encephalography source localization, 369, spherical model, 364, 365	370, 374
anatomically constrained, 365	empirical Bayes, 151-152, 447
three sphere shell model, 363-364, 365	expectation maximization, 456
Head-hat registration approach, 59	hierarchical models, 277, 280, 282, 284
Heaviside function, 394	multivariate spatial models, 213
Hidden Markov models, 276, 305, 311, 508	pooled estimates, 185–186
Hierarchical models, 7, 38, 148–155	time series data, 185–186 conjunction analyses, 29	Hyperparameters, 150
cortical networks, 421–423, 479	Hypothesis testing empirical Bayes, 7, 8, 35, 148, 275–294, 295, 296, 297, 367, 369	famlily-wise error, 223–224
cortical hierarchies, 479	rejection of null hypothesis, 223–224 source reconstruction, 378–379	, empirical priors, 275, 284, 285	threshold values, 224
inference, 28–29, 35, 148, 154, 218, 275, 277 belief propagation algorithm, 154–155	ICBM Tissue Probabilistic Atlas, 84
	Image intensity histograms, 83 linear models, 278–281	Image re-sampling, rigid body registration, 50–52
Bayesian perspective, 280–281, 284–285	Fourier methods, 50–51, 52 classical perspective, 279–280, 284–285	generalized interpolation, 51 conditional density, 283	simple interpolation, 50 covariance components estimation, 279, 280, 281–282
hyperparameter estimation, 277, 280, 282, 284	windowed sinc interpolation, 50–51 parameter estimation, 277, 278–279, 280, 282	Independent component analysis, 39, 500–501 restricted maximum likelihood, 614–616	generative models, 499–500 magneto-/electro-encephalography, 211, 216–219, 378–379	Individualized brain atlases, 63
design factors, 212	Induced responses, 382, 414–415, 426 hypothesis testing, 218–219	event-related potentials see Event-related potentials notation, 212	magneto-/electro-encephalography, 219
spatial models, 211, 212–214	distributed source reconstruction model, 378, 383, 388, 389 temporal models, 216–218	neural mass models, 430–431 time frequency analysis, 219	oscillatory activity, 434–436 time series analysis, 218	trial-to-trial variability, 434–435, 436 model classes (model selection), 454	neuronal models, 391
notation, 148	Inference, 10, 140 parameter estimation, 277	Bayesian see Bayesian inference posterior probability maps, 277	belief propagation algorithm, 454 random-effect analysis, 28–29	causes from sensory data, 477
two-level, 149–151	classical, 34, 35, 126–139, 276–277, 279, 295, 301, 590 equal variance, 150	limitations, 276 sensor fusion, 150	cluster-level, 237–238, 239, 240, 243
separable models, 150–151	conditional parameter, 454, 455-456, 569
Highpass filtering, 183–184, 200, 202, 205	dynamic causal models, 549
functional magnetic resonance imaging, 122–123	general linear model, 105–108
Hilbert transform, 219	spatially regularized, 317
Historical aspects, 3–8	hierarchical models, 28–29, 35, 148, 154, 218, 275, 277, Bayesian developments, 7–8	279–280
electro-encephalography, 8	conjunction analyses, 29 experimental designs, 5	fixed-effect analysis, 28, 29 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 5–7	random-effect analysis, 28–29 magneto-encephalography, 8	learning comparison, 477, 478 positron emission tomography, 5, 6	linear models, 589–591 position chimoson tomography, o, o

Inference (Continued)	Isoluminant stimuli, 21
mean field models, 399	Item-effects, 197, 206 model, 454, 455–456, 457–458, 463, 568–569	Iterated conditional modes, 85-86
multivariate analysis of covariance, 503
neuronal implementation in brain, 476-480	Jansen model, 416, 418, 422, 563, 564, 574 expectation maximization, 477, 478, 480	janoch model, 410, 410, 422, 505, 504, 574 nonparametric procedures, 261
non-sphericity adjustment, 288-289	K (slow potassium) ion channels, 394 peak-level, 237–238, 239, 240, 242–243	k-means, bias correction, 83 population effects, 29, 156, 164	Kalman filtering, 447, 483, 619–620 power analysis, 242–243, 244	effective connectivity modelling, 516–517
randomization test, 261	Karhunen-Loeve expansion, 494 regional specificity, 239, 244	Kendall correlation test, 259 relation to perception, 479	Kronecker products, 146, 159, 167, 174, 176, 195, 213, 290, 315, set-level, 237–238, 239, 240, 243	378, 388, 506, 536
topological, 10, 18-20, 237-245	Kullback-Liebler divergence, 303, 304, 306, 316, 460, 478, 515 variational Bayes (ensemble learning), 305-306 voxel-based morphometry, 96–97	L-curve analysis, 8, 369, 375, 378
within-subject versus between-subject variability, 28	Landmarks
Information matrix, 205	colocalization assessment, 78
Information theory, 589–590	functional identification, 4 between-modality registration approaches, 59	Langevin equation, 395, 397 intensity based registration methods, 64	Laplace approximation, 305, 306, 447, 458-459, 568
Input-output models, 594–597	Bayesian information criteria, 459
Input-state-output models, 37–38, 597–599	model evidence computation, 458-459, 463, 464, 578 hidden states, 37	variational Bayes, 305, 306, 606–610
neuronal transients, 524	Laplacian (membrane energy) model, 66
Integrate-and-fire neurons (spiking model), 392, 393–394	Laplacian priors, 324, 325
Inter-hemispheric integration, 577	Latency effects, 12, 435 alternative models, 581–582	neural mass models, 435, 436 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 580	Lead field, 352 theories, 579–580	boundary element method approach see Boundary
Inter-scan interval, 199	element method
Inter-scan variability, 7, 28, 156, 164, 199	magneto-encephalography, 364
Inter-subject registration	Learning, 476–480, 508
affine transformation, 76, 77	empirical Bayes, 471, 476, 479 limitations, 76	neuronal models, 479–480
non-linear registration, 76, 77	general algorithm, 479–480
Inter-subject variability, 7, 28, 94, 156, 164, 199	relation to cortical infrastrcture, 480–481
spatial smoothing of data, 13–14	generative models, 477
Interactions, 194, 195	inference comparison, 477, 478 difference of differences, 174	maximum likelihood of parameters, 477, 478
F-contrasts, 174	perceptual, 476, 477
factorial experimental designs, 22, 166	dynamic causal models, 487–488 multiway analysis of variance, 174	plasticity, 475, 478, 486
two-way analysis of variance, 170, 172	predictive coding, 479
Intercept, 167	recognition model, 477
Interpolation artefacts, 12, 60, 61	Lesion studies, 472
Interpolation for image re-sampling	functional integration, 488–489
bilinear, 50	Levenberg-Marquardt algorithm, 74
Fourier methods, 50–51, 52	segmentation optimization, 86, 87
generalized, 51	Likelihood, 64
simple, 50	Linear discriminant analysis, 504
trilinear (first-order hold), 50	Linear dynamical systems, 305, 510
windowed sinc, 50–51 Inverse affine transformations, 52	Linear models, 101, 127
Inverse consistency 75	conditional parameter inference, 455–456
Inverse problems 478	convolution, 36, 195, 200
Inverse problems, 478	dynamic, 510
Isochromatic stimuli, 21	functional integration modelling, 509 effective connectivity, 513	time as dimension of response variable, 212, empirical Bayes, 277	214, 215 expectation maximization, 277	time as experimental effect/factor, 212, 214, 215, 216 hierarchical see Hierarchical models	experimenetal design effects, 216–217 inference, 589–591	Main effect, 175, 194, 195 inversion, 11	analysis of variance magneto-/electro-encephalography, with time as factor,	multi-way, 174

211, 212	one-way between-subject, 167, 168
multivariate, 590–591	two-way, 170, 172 restricted maximum likelihood, 613-616	F-contrasts, 174
time-invariant, 10, 16, 17, 23	factor by coavariate interaction design, 113, 114
Linear regression, 102	factorial experimental designs, 20, 166
Linear-elastic energy, 66	model evidence, 457
Linearity of response testing (t-contrasts), 132	Mann-Whitney test, 259
LISREL, 514	Marginal likelihood, 151–152, 478
Local field potentials, 392, 403, 431	see also Model evidence blood-oxygenation-level-dependent (BOLD) response	Markov chain models, 303, 328, 460 relationship, 341, 406, 410	Markov random field models, 90, 276
Localizationism, 33	bias correction, 83
Low resolution tomography (LORETA), 329	Mass-univariate models, 3, 4, 15, 301, 313 constrained (cLORETA), 465, 466	magneto-/electro-encephalography, 212, 213–214
priors, 314, 315, 324	spatial covariances, 214
spatio-temporal deconvolution model for	temporal data, 214
electro-/magneto-encephalography comparison,	Matched filter theorem, 225, 243
331–332	application to spatial smoothing, 14, 95
Low-pass filtering, 424	spatio-temporal models for magneto-/electro-encephalography, 215
	MATLAB, 5, 104, 159, 254
Magnetic resonance imaging, segmentation,	Matrix methods, 101
81–90	Maximal statistic distribution, permutation
Magneto-encephalography	tests, 258, 259 Maximum a posteriori estimates, 64, 305, 306 analysis of variance, 166	dynamic causal models, 549
Bayesian inversion of models see Empirical Bayes	electro-/magneto-encephalography source data analysis, 10, 11	reconstruction, 379 distributed modelling see Distributed	Bayesian inversion models, 367 source-localization models	hierarchical linear models, 280 dynamic causal models see Dynamic causal models	non-linear registration, 74–75 forward models, 352	Maximum information transfer, 426 boundary element method approach, 355-356	Maximum likelihood, 7
Maxwell's equations, 352, 353–354	functional magnetic resonance imaging filtering, 23–24 forward problem, 352, 353	general linear model, 16, 103
functional magnetic resonance imaging measures integration	hierarchical linear model parameter estimation, 279, 280, see Functional magnetic resonance imaging	281, 282–283, 284, 285, 286 hierarchical models see Hierarchical models	image segmentation optimization, 88 historical aspects, 8	multivariate autoregressive models, 536 inverse problem, 352, 353, 367, 377, 407	random effects analysis, 156–157 lead field, 352, 364	relationship to Bayesian estimators, 277 mass-univariate models, 213–124, 216	serial correlations, 6 multivariate models, 212–213	error covariance, 121 vectorized forms, 213, 214	see also Restricted maximum likelihood neuronal models see Neural mass models	Maximum likelihood II, 66–67, 151
notation, 212	Maximum test statistic, 232–233 source reconstruction see Source reconstruction	discrete local maxima method, 233 spatial data, 211, 212–214	maximum spatial extent, 233–234
spatial models, 212–214	small region searches, 234 spatio-temporal models, 323–335	Maximum-intensity projection format, 3 spherical head model, 364	Maxwell's equations, 324, 352, 353–354 temporal models, 212, 214–218	Mean centring, 128
-	~

Mean field models, 304, 391, 392, 523 coupled neuronal populations, 398–399, 523	Morphometric studies, image registration, 55 Motion artefacts, 12, 49, 183, 225, 313 estimation of parameters, 399 inference, 399	data adjustment, 12 data realignment, 11, 12
neural mass models, 415, 562	residual artefacts, 57–58
neuronal population modelling, 417–418	preprocessing corrections, 49
Mean squared difference, 65	within-modality image registration, 55 rigid body within-modality registration, 55, 56	Motor cortex, 345 spatial normalization, 75–76	Motor responses
Mean transit time, 344, 350	adaptation/plasticity, 5, 22
Membrane energy (Laplacian) model, 66	regressor correlations, 136
Memory, 206, 251, 268, 475	right/left comparison, 132–134
Minimum likelihood function, 76	Multidimensional scaling, 39, 493, 496–497
Minimum norms, 280, 388	Multifactorial experimental design, 5, 20
Mismatch negativity, 478, 486, 487, 561	Multiple comparisons problem, 223, 232, 246, 276,
Mis-registration artefacts, 94, 97	295, 301
Mixed effects analysis, 28, 29, 35, 117, 278, 279, 296	permutation tests, 159, 253, 254, 257–258
Mixture of Gausians image segmentation	single threshold test, 258, 259 bias correction, 83–84	suprathreshold cluster tests, 258–259 objective function, 82	Multiple linear regression, 16, 20–21
Mixture models, 276	Multiple regression analysis see General linear model
Model averaging, 454–455, 460	Multiple signal classification (MUSIC), 328
source localization with anatomical	Multistat, 145
constraints, 464–466	Multistudy designs, 34, 35
Model class, 454	positron emission tomography, 116–117
Bayesian model averaging, 460	voxel-wise analysis, 4, 18 model inference, 456	see also Multiple comparisons problem
Model construction, 126–127	Multisubject designs, 156, 164, 199 baseline, 128	functional magnetic resonance imaging, 286
Model design, 20–28	positron emission tomography, 114–116
Model evidence	condition-by-replication interactions, 114–115
Akaike information criteria, 459, 460, 461, 578	interactions with subject (ANCOVA by Bayes factors, 457–458, 464, 579	subject), 115
Bayesian information criteria, 459–460, 461, 578	replication of conditions, 114
Bayesian model selection, 456	Multivariate analysis of covariance, 39, 214, 492
computation, 456, 458	applications, 505
Laplace approximation, 458–459, 463, 464	canonical variate analysis, 503–504 dynamic causal models, 461–462, 569, 573, 578	dimension reduction, 502–503 free energy relationship, 303–304	functional connectivity, 502–507 source reconstruction with multiple	multivariate spatial models, 212, 213 constraints, 463–464	statistical inference, 503
Model inference, 454, 455–456	Multivariate autoregressive models, 311, 542, 562
Bayes factors, 457–458	Bayesian estimation, 536, 538, 539 dynamic causal models, 568–569	Bayesian inference, 536
source reconstruction, 463	effective connectivity modelling, 517–518, 534, 537–540
Model selection, 454–466	functional magnetic resonance imaging, 537–538 conditional parameter inference, 454, 455–456	maximum likelihood estimation, 536 dynamic causal models, 568, 569, 577–584	non-linear, 535 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 577–579	theory, 535–536 inter-hemispheric integration, 583-584	Multivariate autoregressive-moving average hierarchical models, 454	models, 601–602
model averaging, 454, 460	Multivariate models, 15, 39
model inference, 454, 456-460	linear, 504, 506, 590–591
notation, 455	source prelocalization, 463 restricted maximum likelihood, 616-617	spatial Monte Carlo simulations, 239, 395	error covariance matrix, 213 permutation tests, 260	magneto-/electro-encephalography, 212-213, 214
Moore-Penrose pseudoinverse, 104	temporal, 214
Morlet wavelet transform, 217, 219	vectorized, 213, 214

Multiway within-subject analysis of variance, 173–175	neuronal network applications see Population density models contrasts, 177	notation, 395
partitioned errors, 174–175	simulation parameter values, 397
Mutual information, between-modality registration	spike-rate adaptation, 394–395 approaches, 59, 60, 61	stochastic, 401
	dynamics, 395–397
	suprathreshold dynamics, 394
Nearest neighbour (zero-order hold) resampling, 50	synaptic channel dynamics, 394–395, 399
Negative free energy, 304, 305, 316, 478	transmembrane potential, 407–408, 410
Neural mass models, 332, 335, 391, 392, 562, 563-565, 574	Neuronal activity, 352 continuous neuronal fields, 392	rate of change of membrane potential, 393 conversion operations, 415	regional cerebral blood flow relationship, 339–340 cortical area (excitatory) coupling, 418–420	haemodynamic model, 343–346 functional connectivity modelling, 420–421 state equations, 418–420	spike activity, relation to BOLD signal, 341 cortical cytoarchitecture, 416–417	Neuronal codes, 525–527 electro-/magneto-encephalography, 414–438	instantaneous rate coding, 526 signal modelling, 415–416	temporal, 526 transient, 526
event-related potentials, 42, 43, 44, 392, 414, 416, 418, 421, 423–426, 562–563, 565–566	asynchronous, 527 synchronous, 526–527
adjusted power, 436	Neuronal ensemble dynamics see Population density models bottom-up effects, 424–425	Neuronal interaction/coupling, 391, 398–399 induced oscillations modelling, 434–436	context-dependent effects see Context-sensitive responses
induced responses, 431–436	dynamic causal models, 541–542, 543
input effects, 423–424	neuronal codes, 525–527
late components, 425–426	neuronal transients, 522 lateral connections, 426–427	non-linear coupling, 411–412, 522, 523, 527–528 phase transition to oscillations, 425, 426	asynchronous interactions, 528 phase-resetting, 427–430	modulatory interactions, 532 recurrent loops, 425–426	simulated neural model, 528–531
simulations, 428–430	self-organizing systems, 523 top-down effects, 425–426	see also Effective connectivity functional integration, 42–43	Neuronal transients, 522, 523–525 hierarchical models, 421–423	asynchronous, 528 connections, 421–422	input-state-output brain models, 524
state equations, 422–423	neuronal codes, 525–526 induced verus evoked responses, 430–431	recent history of system inputs, 524
Jansen model, 416, 418, 422	· · ·
lumped models, 392	synchronous, 528 Volterrra series formulation, 524, 525, 526 mean-field approximation, 415, 562 Newton-Raphson optimization, 74, 87, 88, 515 neuronal population modelling, 417–418	Nitric oxide, 340, 345, 349 neuronal state equations, 563–565	NMDA receptors/channels, 394, 403, 432, 434, 474, 475, 481 non-linear coupling simulation, 528–531	NMDA synapses, 528, 530, 532 ongoing activity, 430	Noise perceptual learning, 42, 43, 44	functional magnetic resonance imaging, 200 principle, 415	time series, 22
Neurodegeneration, 97–98	highpass filtering, 183–184
Neurogenetic studies, 92	neuronal/non-neuronal sources, 22–23
Neurometric functions, 20, 112	scanner drift, 183
Neuron model	Non-linear models deterministic, 393–394, 401	autoregressive, 12, 535
energetics, 406–412	Bayesian inference, 446–447
Fokker-Planck equation, 395–398	conditional parameter inference, 456 integrate-and-fire (spiking model), 392, 393-394, 403, 407	convolution, 186–188
temporally augmented, 394	Volterra expansion, 186, 188
inter-spike time, 394, 404	effective connectivity modelling, 485–486 mean field models, 398–399	expectation maximization, 611–613 membrane potential activations, 408	functional integration modelling, 476, 509 multiple/coupled populations, 398–399	functional magnetic resonance imaging time series, 24–26
manaple, coupled populations, 070-077	ranctional magnetic resonance imaging time series, 24-20

Non-linear models (Continued)	likelihood term, 65
haemodynamic model see Haemodynamic model	prior term, 65–66
(extended balloon model)	empirical Bayes model evidence computation, 458	equal variance model, 152
Laplace approximation, 458–459	separable models, 153
posterior mode analysis, 447	mean-squared difference, 65
variational Bayes, 610–611	non-linear registration, 64–67
Non-linear principal component analysis, 499–500, 501	restricted maximum likelihood with Laplace applications, 501	approximation, 66–67
generative models, 499–500	rigid body registration, 55
Non-linear registration, 63–78	segmentation model, 82–85 applications, 63	Observation equation, 393 deformation models, 67	Occam's razor (parsimony principle), 78 diffeomorphic (large deformation), 72–74	Occam's window, 455, 460, 465, 466
estimating mappings, 74–75	Oddball experimental designs, 196, 569
Levenberg-Marquardt algorithm, 74	auditory, 487–488, 571–573 evaluation strategies, 77–78	mismatch negativity, 391 greedy 'viscous fluid' method, 72–73	Omnibus hypothesis, 258
inter-subject averaging, 76, 77	Open field configuration, 352 internal consistency, 75	Ordinary least squares, 130, 141, 146, 150, 214 limitations, 76	general linear model parameter estimation, 103 objective functions, 64–67	hierarchical linear model estimators, 280 segmentation, 94	serial correlations, 121
Non-linear systems identification, 38	distributional results, 123
Non-parametric procedures, 128, 129, 253–271	parameter estimates, 123
parametric procedures comparison, 270	variational Bayes algorithm, 316
Non-sphericity, 15, 17, 117, 140, 166	Orthogonal projection, 139 analysis of variance, 169–170, 172, 175	Oscillatory activity, 388, 414, 415, 492, 562
covariance components estimation, 143–144, 286	binding hypothesis, 431, 562 degrees of freedom, 144, 145	blood-oxygenation-level-dependent (BOLD) signal pooling estimates over voxels, 144	correlations, 406 simulating noise, 145	evoked, 431, 432
data whitening approach, 141, 146	induced, 415, 431, 432, 434–436
hierarchical models, 150	local field potentials, 431 inference adjustment, 288–289	neural mass models, 392, 415–416, 434–436
iterative estimates, 141, 185–186	cortical area coupling, 420 magneto-/electro-encephalography	event-related potentials, 425, 426 spatial models, 212–214	Jansen model, 418 temporal data, 214, 218	neuronal codes, 526, 527
mass-univariate models, 214	neuronal transients, 524 measures of departure from sphericity, 142–143	ongoing, 430, 431 post hoc correction, 140–141, 146	spectral peaks analysis, 391 repeated measures experimental designs, 141, 142	Oxygen extraction fraction, 344, 348, 349 statistical parametric mapping approaches, 141	englen entruction reaction, e 12, e 16, e 17 time series
hyperparameters estimation, 185–186	Parameter estimation, 129-130, 131, 132
temporal autocorrelations, 184	hierarchical models, 277, 278-279, 280, 282
2-Norm, 493	Parametric experimental designs, 20-21
Null distribution, 223	Parametric maps, 4–5
Null events, 205, 208–209	Parametric model construction, 126-127, 128, 129
Number of scans, 118, 199	Parametric procedures, 223–230
Nyquist ghost artefacts, 58	Partial least squares, 493, 497
Nyquist limit, slice-time correction, 199	Partial volume effects, 84
ryquist mint, siece time correction, 177	Partial volume interpolation, 60 Partitioned error models, 171, 172, 173, 174–175
o-Moms (maximal-order interpolation of minimal support)	Path analysis see Structural equation modelling basis functions, 51	Pathological lesions
Objective functions	segmentation models, 93
Bayes' theorem, 64	spatial normalization, 13
	•

Peak-level inference, 19, 237–238, 239, 240 power analysis, 242–243, 244	baseline scan, 109 design matrix images, 108
Perceptual data/perception, 476–477, 479, 508	false positive rate, 4 analysis by synthesis, 477	fixed effects analysis (multisubject designs), 161–162 generative models, 477	general linear model, 108–117
Perceptual inference, 471, 479	condition-by-replication interactions, 114–115
Perceptual learning, 471, 486–488	confounds/covariates, 113, 114 dynamic causal models, 487–488	factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 neural-mass model, 42, 43, 44	interactions with subject (ANCOVA by subject), 115
plasticity, 475, 478, 569, 571	multistudy designs, 116–117
Permutation tests, 253, 254–261	replication (multisubject activation), 114 applications, 261–270	single subject activation design, 111–112 multi-subject functional magnetic resonance	single subject parametric designs, 112 imaging, 268–270	global normalization, 109
multi-subject positron emission tomography, 265–268	analysis of covariance, 110 single-subject positron emission tomography, 262–265	proportional scaling, 109–110 assumptions, 259–260	grand mean scaling, 110–111 exchangeability, 255, 256	historical aspects, 3, 5, 6 generalizability, 261	inter-modality registration methods, 59 key steps, 261–262	parametric maps, 4–5
r	-
Monte Carlo tests, 260	peak-level inference, 243
multiple testing problem, 257–258	permutation tests single threshold test, 258	multi-subject design, 265–268
suprathreshold cluster tests, 258–259	single-subject design, 262–265 multistep, 261	posterior probability maps, 298–301
non-parametric statistics, 259	principle, 340 number of relabellings, 260	random effects analysis (multisubject designs), 161, power, 260–261	162–163
pseudo t -statistics, 260, 261	residual artefacts after realignment, 57–58
randomization tests, 254–257	spatial correlations (point spread function), 224–225 single voxel activation, 256–257	Posterior probability, 64
step-down tests, 261	Posterior probability maps, 16, 34, 35, 295–302
test method, 256, 257	functional magnetic resonance imaging, 301–302 test size, 260	hierarchical models, 277
Phase-synchronization, 427, 428	positron emission tomography, 298–301
Phrenology, 33	posterior density, 295, 296
Plasticity, 508, 543	conditional estimators, 296–298
associative, 475, 481	error covariance, 296–297, 298
bilinear models, 509	prior density estimation, 297–298 learning-related, 486	spatially regularized, 313
perceptual learning, 569, 571	contrasts, 317
task-dependent, 514	general linear model, 317, 318 see also Context-sensitive responses	spatio-temporal models for Polynomial regression, 112	electro-/magneto-encephalography, 323
Pooled error models, 171–173	thresholds, 301
Population density models, 391–404	Postsynaptic potentials, 352, 414 applications, 400–403	neural mass models, 417, 418, 565 coupling among populations, 401–403	Power analysis, inference, 242-243, 244 single population dynamics, 400-401	Pre-attentive processing, 486
deterministic model neuron, 393-394	Precision matrices, 455
Fokker-Planck equation, 395–398	Pre-colouring, 6
mean field models, 398-399, 417-418	temporal autocorrelations, 184 multiple/coupled populations, 398–399	Prediction error, 478, 486, 500
neuronal populations, 395	neuronal models, 480
stochastic effects, 392	Predictive coding, 478-479, 483, 486
Positron emission tomography	Bayesian framework, 479 activation scan, 109	Predictors, 127, 128, 129, 130
analysis of variance, 166	Pre-whitening, 6, 121
attenuation correction errors, 57	temporal autocorrelations, 184–185 event-related potentials modelling, 328 non-linear, 499–500, 501 applications, 502 singular value decomposition, 39 Princip probability, 64 Procedural karning, 475 Progressive supranuclear polsy, 92 Proportional scaling, 119 Pseudo I statistics, 260, 261 Pseudoinverse methods, 104 Psychiatric studies, 20 Psychopharmacological studies, 50 psychomotro proverty, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective cometivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective cometivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context sensitive functional approach of the provided of the provided designs, 199–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 apposition emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (literarchical) models, 170 summary statistics approach, 157–188, 160–161, 163, 279 senative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography incrarchical models, 170 summary statistics approach, 157–188, 160–161, 163, 279 senative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography incrarchical models, 170 summary statistics approach, 157–188, 160–161, 163, 279 senative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography incrarchical models, 170 summary statistics approach, 157–188, 160–161, 163, 279 senative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography incrarchical models, 170 summary statistics approach, 157–188, 160–161, 163, 279 senative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography incrarchical models, 170 summary statistics approach, 157–188, 160–161, 163, 279 senative models, 170 summary statistics appr	Principal component analysis, 20, 39, 213, 305, 493	thresholds calculation, 227, 228, 238–241 non-linear, 499–500, 501 applications, 501 generative models, 499–500 singular value decomposition, 39 Principal ecordinate analysis, 493 Prior probability, 64 Procedural learning, 475 Progressive supranuclear paley, 92 Proportional scaling, 119 Pseudol - statistics, 260, 261 Psychiatric studies, 20 Psychopharmacological studies, 5 factorial experimental designs, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 565 electro-encepholographic observational equations, 566–567 Radiol basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 279, 282, 279, 282, 279, 282, 279, 282, 279, 282, 273, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 20 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full vidth at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 222–23 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spetial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spotal occarriances correction in mass-univariate applications, 501 generative models, 499-500 singular value decomposition, 39 Prior probability, 64 Procedural learning, 475 Progressive supranuclear palsy, 92 Proportional scaling, 119 Pseudo I-statistics, 200, 261 Pseudoinverse methods, 104 Psychiatris studies, 20 Psychomotro powerty, 22 Psychomotro powerty, 22 Psychomotro powerty, 22 Psychomotro powerty, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective comectivity modelling, 513-514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193-194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 24, 247, 418, 424, 44, 565 electro-encephalographic observational cyautions, 566-567 complication and processing and processing and the proposal process of the process generative models, 499–300 singular value decomposition, 39 Principal coordinate analysis, 493 Prior probability, 64 Procedural learning, 475 Progressive supranuclear palsy, 92 Proportional scaling, 119 Pseudo-learning, 259 Pseudo-learning, ssingular value decomposition, 39 Principal cordinate analysis, 493 Prior probability, 64 Procedural learning, 475 Progressive supranuclear palsy, 92 Proportional scaling, 119 Pseudo I-statistics, 260, 261 Pseudoinverse methods, 104 Psychiatric studies, 20 Psychomotor poverty, 22 Psychomotor poverty, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyrmidial cells, 42, 417, 418, 42, 44, 546, 566 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 71, 128–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Base, 156, 158–161, 1.63 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hetroy, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 259 exchangeability, 255 condition presentation order, 254 inference, 261 mechanics, 235–256 null hypothesis, 255 randomized designs, 25 randomized designs, 26 event-related methods, 195, 196, 205 noise variance, 205 noise vari	* *

Princip al coordinate analysis, 493 Procedural learning, 475 Progressive supranuclear palsy, 92 Proportional scaling, 119 Pseudo I - statistics, 260, 261 Psychomotro proverty, 22 Psychopharmacological studies, 5 factorial experimental designs, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modeling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/ electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–258, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (PWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum pstatial extent of test statistic, 235–229 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate spental round restriction, 49 eccentral blood infere	•
Prior probability, 64 Procedural learning, 475 Progressive supranuclear palsy, 92 Proportional scaling, 119 Pseudo-fastabitics, 200, 261 Pseudo-inverse methods, 104 Pseudo-inverse methods, 104 Psychiatria studies, 20 Psychomotor poverty, 22 Psychomotor poverty, 22 Psychomotor poverty, 22 Psychomotor poverty, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-ensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513-514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193-194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 546, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566-567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28-29, 38, 156-165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158-161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159—160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/ectro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156-157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161-163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 escapatale (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157-158, 160-161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18-20, 34, 223, 226-230, 232-236, 276, 596, 621-623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 220 error fields, 7, 12, 28-22, 223, 2240 full width at half maximum (FWFM) estimates, 234-235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232-234 maximum test statistic, 232-233 small region scarches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228-229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate	•	-
Procedural learning, 475 Progressives upranuclear palsy, 92 Proportional scaling, 119 Pseudo i-statistics, 260, 261 Pseudoinverse methods, 104 Psychiatric studies, 20 Psychopharmacological studies, 5 factorial experimental designs, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513-514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193-194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational cquations, 566-567 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158-161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159-160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156-157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161-163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157-158, 100-161, 163, 279 gammary statistics approach, 157-158, 100-161, 163, 279 gammary statistics approach, 157-158, 100-161, 163, 279 standom field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18-20, 34, 223, 226-230, 232-236, 276, 506, 621-623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227-228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234-235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232-234 maximum pspatial extent of test statistic, 233-234 maximum pspatial extent of test statistic, 232-235 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 229 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate special correction, 49 reference on the maximum description of the correction in mass-univariate provided and the correction of the corre	*	• •
Progressive supranuclear palsy, 92 Proportional scaling, 119 Pseudo I-statistics, 260, 261 Pseudoinverse methods, 104 Psychiatric studies, 20 Psychomotor poverty, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 544, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum lisklihood, 156 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 57–188, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 275, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 220 crore fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 rescis, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate inference, 261 mandomized designs, 19 event-related methods, 195, 196, 205 noise variancies, 295 timissues, 197–198 RAVENS map approach, 98 Realigament, 12 time-series images, 55 Receiver operator characteristic (ROC) curve, 242 Receptive fields context-sensitive effects, 471 extra-classical effects, 471 extra-classi	* *	-
Proportional scaling, 119 Pseudo 1-statistics, 260, 261 Pseudoinverse methods, 104 Psychiatric studies, 20 Psychomotro poverty, 22 Psychopharmacological studies, 5 factorial experimental designs, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 545, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 236 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232–234 maximum pstal extent of test statistic, 232–234 maximum pstal extent of test statistic, 232–234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate mechanizal and propertion designs and legistic subtractions, 255 standomized designs, 195 event-related methods, 195, 196, 205 timing issue, 197–198 disanting issue, 197–198 timing issues, 197–198 timi		- Pseudoinverse methods, 104 Psychiatric studies, 20 Psychomotor poverty, 22 Psychophysicological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513-514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193-194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566-567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28-29, 38, 156-165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158-161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159-160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156-157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161-163 restricted maximum likelihood, 156 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157-158, 160-161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18-20, 34, 223, 226-230, 223-226, 276, 506, 621-623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227-228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234-235 functional imaging data analysis, 22 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232-234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232-234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232-234 maximum partial extent of test statistic, 232-234 maxi
Pseudoinverse methods, 104 Psychatrics tudies, 20 Psychomotor poverty, 22 Psychopharmacological studies, 5 factorial experimental designs, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Radial basis functions, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum pspatial extent of test statistic, 232–234 ma	• Psychiatric studies, 20 Psychopharmacological studies, 5 factorial experimental designs, 22 Psychopharmacological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 199–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-(electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 187–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum us st statistic, 232–234 maximum us st statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 229 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate disadvantages, 196 event-related methods, 195, 196, 205 noise variance, 205 timing issues, 197–198 RaAVENS map approach, 98 RalvENS
psychopharmacological studies, 5 factorial experimental designs, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 566, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 279 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–166 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 187–158, 160–161, 163, 279 gassumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 234, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional magning data analysis, 228 maximum ust statistic, 232–238 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232–239 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 229 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate disadvantages, 196 event-related methods, 195, 196, 205 timing issues, 197–198 RAVENS map approach, 98 Realignment, 12 affice transformation, 12 subject movement effects, 11 temporal, 12 temporal, 12 temporal, 12 textra-classical effects, 471, 528 Regignment, 12 extra-classical effects, 471, 528 Regignment, 12 extra-classical effects, 471, 528 Regign of interest measurements, 3 Regional cerebral blood flow biophysical models, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging	, Psychophyarmacological studies, 5 factorial experimental designs, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto- (electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 187–158, 160–161, 163, 279 sandrom field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 234, 40 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232–234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232–235 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 229 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate evaluation, 77–78 evat-caleated methods, 195, 18, 18, 227, 285 timing issues, 197–198 RaAVENS map approach, 98 Realgrment, 12 affine transformation, 12 stories with a fine transformation, 12 stories with effects, 417 extra-classical effects, 471 extra-classical effects, 471, 528 Receiver operator characteristic (ROC) curve, 242 Receptive fields context-sensitive effects, 471 extra-classical effects, 471, 528 Region of interest measurements, 3 Regional cerebral blood flow biophysical models, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging BOLID signal,	· .
factorial experimental designs, 22 Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Radial basis functions, 71 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 156 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Eurler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional magning data analysis, 22 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 224 non-sphericity, 15 small volune correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 rescls, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances corrected in mass-univariate spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate affine transformation, 12 subject movement effects, 11 temporal, 12 timensor; 13 timetral refects, 11 temporal, 12 timensor; 12 timesories, 15 Receiver operator characteristic (ROC) curve, 242 Rec Psychophysiological interactions bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513-514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193-194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational cquations, 566-567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28-29, 38, 156-165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158-161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159-160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156-157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161-163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 187-185, 160-161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18-20, 34, 223, 226-230, 232-236, 276, 506, 621-623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227-228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234-235 functional magning data analysis, 22 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233-234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233-234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232-233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volune correction, 228-229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances corrected in mass-univariate spatial covariances corrected in mass-univariate spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate spatial covariances cor bilinear models, 513, 514 context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232–239 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate special cells, 471, 528 Realignment, 12 affine transformation, 12 subject movement effects, 11 temporal, 12 time-series images, 55 Receiver operator characteristic (ROC) curve, 242 Receiver operator chara context-sensitive functional specialization, 484 effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal colls, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 2323–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volune correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 rescls, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate effective connectivity modelling, 513–514 factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width a half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate affine transformation it temporal, 12 time-series images, 55 Receiver operator characteristic (ROC) curve, 242 Receptive fields context-sensitive effects, 471 exter-classical effects, 471, 528 Region of interest measurements, 3 Regional cerebral blood flow biophysical models, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging BoLD signal, 344–346 time series, 24 neural activity/metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic models, 313 neural activity/metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic models, 310 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject poverated fifteds, 11 temporal, 12 titereporal, 12 tit factorial experimental designs, 22 Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 441, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width a half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate subject movement effects, 11 temporal, 12 temporal, 12 time-series images, 55 Receivre operator characteristic (ROC) curve, 242 Receptive fields context-sensitive effects, 471 extra-classical effects, 471, 528 Region of linterest measurements, 3 Region of interest measurements, 3 Region of linterest measurements, 3 Region of linterest measurements, 3 Regional cerebral blood flow biophysical models, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging BOLD signal, 344-346 time series, 24 neural activity metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model, 343–346 time series, 24 neural activity metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model, 313–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 114, 161–163 respecti	*	The state of the s
Pure insertion assumption, 193–194, 195 Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–239 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate temporal, 12 time-series images, 55 Receiver operator characteristic (ROC) curve, 242 Receptive fields context-sensitive effects, 471, 528 Region of interest measurements, 3 Region of interest measurements, 2 Reciver operator characteristic (ROC) curve, 242 Receptive fields context-sensitive effects, 471, 528 Region of interest measurements, 2 Region	,
Pyramidal cells, 42, 417, 418, 421, 424, 564, 565 electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566-567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate subject parameters characteristic (ROC) curve, 242 Receptive fields context-sensitive effects, 471, 528 Region of interest measurements, 3 Region alterest measurements, 3 Regional receival blood flow biophysical models, 37 functional magnet resonance ima		, electro-encephalographic observational equations, 566–567 Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate Receiver operator characteristic (ROC) curve, 242 Receptive fields context-sensitive effects, 471, 528 Region of interest measurements, 3 Region of interest measurements, 3 Region of interest measurements, 3 Region of interest measuremeants, 3 Region of interest	•	-
Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum patial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–223 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate Receptive fields context-sensitive effects, 471 extra-classical effects, 471, 528 Regional feets, 471, 528 Region of interest measurements, 3 Regional cerebral blood flow biophysical models, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging BOLD signal, 344–346 time series, 24 neural activity/metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model, 313–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 110 single subject parametric designs, 112–113 single subject parametric designs, 112, 112–113 single subject parametric designs, 112 regional hypotheses, corrected / uncorrected / values, 229–230 Regionally specific effects, 471, 528 Regional browdels, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging BOLD signal, 344–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 11, single subject par	•	· ·
Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate context-sensitive effects, 471, 528 Region of interest measurements, 3 Regional cerebral blood flow biophysical models, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging BOLD signal, 344–346 time series, 24 neural activity/metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model, 343–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 112 anatomical models, 11, 34 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunctions, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive interactions, 93–340 nor-sphericity, 15 false positive interactions, 12–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subjec		-
Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate extra-classical effects, 471, 528 Region of interest measurements, 3 Regional crebral blood flow biophysical models, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging BOLD signal, 344–346 time series, 24 neural activity/metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model, 343–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject parametric designs, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject parametric designs, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected / uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 11, 34 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunctions, 20 cognitive subtraction, 20 cognitive subtractio	equations, 500–507	•
Radial basis functions, 71 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional magnetic resonance imaging BOLD signal, 344–346 time series, 24 neural activity/ metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model, 343–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging BOLD signal, 344–346 time series, 24 neural activity/ metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model, 343–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 11, single subject parametric designs, 112 single subject parametric designs, 112 100 single subject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 11, single subject designs, 114–116 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by c
Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 38, 156–165, 166, 278, 279, 283, 297 empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random effects analysis, 7, 11, 28–29, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate Regional cerebral blood flow biophysical models, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging BOLD signal, 344–346 time series, 24 neural activity/ metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model, 343–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 normalization models, 110 single subject designs, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging BOLD signal, 344–346 time series, 24 neural activity/ metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model, 343–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 normalization models, 110 single subject parametric designs, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionally inderaction, 123–14 normalization models, 130 single subject parametric designs, 114	Radial basis functions, 71 biophysical models, 37 functional magnetic resonance imaging magnetory flectroencephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (EWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232–234 maximum test statistic, 232–234 maximum test statistic, 232–235 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate empirical Bayes, 156, 158–161, 163 unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate functional magnetic resonance imaging BOLD signal, 344–346 time series, 24 neural activity/metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model, 343–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject parametric designs, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 11, 34 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunctions, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 4, 49 affine, 78 evaluation, 77–78	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	~ unbalanced designs, 159–160 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate BOLD signal, 344–346 time series, 24 neural activity/metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model, 343–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject parametric designs, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject designs, 12 Regional hypotheses, corrected / uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected / uncorrected p values, 229–230 cognitive conjunctions, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 4, 49 affine, 78 evaluation, 77–78 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 163, 277 generative model, 151 magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate time series, 24 neural activity/metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 haemodynamic model,, 343–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject dativation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 113, 4 artefactor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 114, 16 normalization models, 110 summary statistic approach specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 110 cognit
magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate neural activity/metabolic demand relationship, 339–340 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject parametric designs, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject dativation models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 111, 14 multisubject designs, 120 commalization models, 120 single subject activation design, 111, 14 multisubject designs, 120 single subject activation design, 111, 14 multisubject designs, 120 single subject activation design, 111, 14 multisubject designs, 120 single subject parametric designs, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 11, 34 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunctions, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anato		· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
magneto-/electro-encephalography hierarchical models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate haemodynamic model, 343–346 oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 112, 14 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject activation design, 112, 12–113 single subject activation design, 112 subject activation design, 112 segional hypotheses, corrected / uncorrected / uncorr models, 216, 218 maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate oxidative metabolism decoupling, 340 positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject parametric designs, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 romatomical models, 11, 34 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunctions, 20 confitive subtraction, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 4, 49 affine, 78 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate	•	•
maximum likelihood, 156–157 positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate positron emission tomography, 109 factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject parametric designs, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypoth		· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate factor by covariate interactions, 113–114 multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject parametric designs, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, torrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p val	maximum likelihood, 156–157 restricted maximum likelihood, 158 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate multisubject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject designs, 114–116 normalization models, 110 single subject designs, 112 Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 110 single subject designs, 112 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject designs, 112 single subject activation design, 112 single subject activation design, 112 single subject designs, 112 single subject activation design, 112 single subject designs, 112 single subject activation design, 112 single subject activation design, 12 regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 11, 34 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunc	positron emission tomography, 114, 161–163 separable (hierarchical) models, 150 summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate normalization models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject parametric designs, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionall hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionall hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 110 single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject parametric designs, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 11, 34 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunctions, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 4, 49 affine, 78 evaluation, 77–78	restricted maximum likelihood, 158	•
summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279 Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate single subject activation design, 111, 112–113 single subject activation design, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 11, 34 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunctions, 20 cognitive subtraction, 20 cognitive	separable (hierarchical) models, 150	, 0
Random field theory, 4, 5, 6, 8, 15, 18–20, 34, 223, 226–230, 232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate single subject parametric designs, 112 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 11, 34 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunctions, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 4, 49 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunctions, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 77–78	summary statistics approach, 157–158, 160–161, 163, 279
232–236, 276, 506, 621–623 assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 232–233 maximum test statistic, 232–233 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regional hypotheses, corrected/uncorrected p values, 229–230 Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 11, 34 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunctions, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 4, 49 affine, 78 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate evaluation, 77–78		· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
assumptions, 18 bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate Regionally specific effects, 3, 4, 10, 472, 542 anatomical models, 11, 34 artefactual changes, 11 cognitive conjunctions, 20 cognitive subtraction, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 4, 49 affine, 78 evaluation, 77–78
bibliography, 230 error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 maximum test statistic, 232–233 maximum test statistic, 232–234 maximum test statistic, 232–235 maximum test statistic, 232–236 maximum test statistic, 232–237 maximum test statistic, 232–238 maximum test statistic, 232–239 maximum test statistic, 232–233 maximum test statistic, 232–239 maximum test statistic, 232–239 maximum test statistic, 232–239 maximum test statistic,	assumptions, 18
error fields, 19 Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 maximum test statistic, 232–233 maximum test statistic, 232–234 maximum test statistic, 232–235 maximum test statistic, 232–237 maximum test statistic, 232–238 maximum test statistic, 232–239 maximum test statistic, 232–233 maximum test statistic, 232–239 maximum test statistic, 232–239 maximum test statistic, 232–239 maximum t	bibliography, 230	~
Euler characteristic, 226, 227–228, 229, 232, 233, 240 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate cognitive conjunctions, 20 cognitive subtraction, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 4, 49 affine, 78 evaluation, 77–78 full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234–235 functional imaging data analysis, 228 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate cognitive subtraction, 20 context-sensitive interactions, 483–484 data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 4, 49 affine, 78 evaluation, 77–78	Euler characteristic, 226, 227-228, 229, 232, 233, 240	~
maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233–234 maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate data analysis, 15 false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 4, 49 affine, 78 evaluation, 77–78	full width at half maximum (FWHM) estimates, 234-235	cognitive subtraction, 20
maximum test statistic, 232–233 small region searches, 234 non-sphericity, 15 small volume correction, 228–229 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate false positive rate, 4 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 Registration, 4, 49 affine, 78 evaluation, 77–78	functional imaging data analysis, 228	context-sensitive interactions, 483–484
small region searches, 234 mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 non-sphericity, 15 topological inference, 19 small volume correction, 228–229 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 affine, 78 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate evaluation, 77–78	maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233-234	data analysis, 15
non-sphericity, 15 topological inference, 19 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 affine, 78 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate evaluation, 77–78	maximum test statistic, 232–233	false positive rate, 4 small volume correction, 228–229 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 96 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 affine, 78 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate evaluation, 77–78	small region searches, 234	mass-univariate approaches, 3, 4, 14, 15 smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 Registration, 4, 49 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 affine, 78 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate evaluation, 77–78	non-sphericity, 15	topological inference, 19
smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227 Registration, 4, 49 resels, 18, 19, 227, 239 affine, 78 spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate evaluation, 77–78
spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate evaluation, 77–78	smoothness estimation (spatial correlation), 226, 227
	resels, 18, 19, 227, 239	affine, 78
models, 214 image segmentation, 81	spatial covariances correction in mass-univariate	evaluation, 77–78 models, 214	image segmentation, 81 intensity based methods, 63, 64	Rigid body registration, 49-61, 78

inter-modality, 50, 58–61	between-modality, 58–61
inter-subject, 63	implementation (joint histogram generation), 59–61
intra-modality, 50, 55–58	information theoretic approaches, 59 label based methods, 63–64	partial volume interpolation, 60 non-linear see Non-linear registration	image re-sampling, 50–52 objective function, 55	Fourier methods, 50–51, 52 reference image, 49	generalized interpolation, 51 rigid body see Rigid body registration simple interpolation, 50
source image, 49	windowed sinc interpolation, 50–51 spatial, 11	registration step, 50
functional/anatomical data coregistration, 13–14	transformations, 50, 52–55
spatial normalization, 4	left-/right-handed coodinate system, 54
voxel-based morphometry, 94	parameterization, 53
within-subject, 63	rotating tensors, 54–55
Regression models, 599–600	rotations, 52
Regressors, 127, 128, 129, 130	shears, 53 contrasts construction, 131, 133, 136	translations, 52 correlation, 136–137, 205, 206	volumes of differing/anisotropic voxel size, 54 testing for variance, 137	zooms, 53
event versus epoch models, 197	within-modality, 55-58 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 118, 119,	implementation, 56–57
120, 121	mean squared difference, 55, 56
orthogonalizing, 206–207	objective function, 55
Repeated measures analysis of variance, 141–142, 166,	optimization, 55–56
176–177, 183	residual artefacts, 57–58
multiway, 173–175	residual discincis, or oo
one-way, 168–170
partitioned errors, 171, 172, 173, 174–175	Sampling rate, 197
pooled errors, 171–173	Satterthwaite approximation, 122, 124–125, 143, 145, Satterthwaite approximation, 143	184, 289
	Scalp fields, 352–353
two-way, 170–173, 183	Scanner drift, 183, 200, 313
Reproducibility	highpass filtering, 123 brain mapping, 6	Scanner gain, 119 dynamic causal models for functional magnetic resonance	Schizophrenia, 498 imaging, 555–556	_
Resampling methods, 259	Segmentation, 63, 81–90
spatial correlations in data, 225	intensity non-uniformity (bias) correction, 82–84, 85
Resels, 18, 19, 227, 228	objective function, 82–85
Residual sum of sqaures, 103, 105, 106	minimization, 85
Restricted maximum likelihood, 148, 286–287, 305	mixture of Gausians, 82
Bayesian inversion models, 367, 369–370	optimization, 85–89
covariance components estimation, 379, 380, 383	bias, 87 distributed electro-/magneto-encephalography source	deformations, 87–88 reconstruction models, 367, 378-380, 383, 388	mixture parameters, 86–87 error covariance estimation, 122, 123	partial volume approaches, 84 hyperparameter estimation, 140, 143, 144, 146, 185, 282-283,	registration with template, 81
285, 288, 296–297, 369–370	regularization of deformations, 85
multivariate spatial models, 213	spatial normalization, 94 with Laplace approximation, 66–67	spatial priors, 84–85, 93 linear models, 613–614	deformation, 85
model selection, 616–617	tissue classification approach, 81
non-sphericity correction, 141, 185–186	voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93–94 temporal variance parameters, 214–215	pathological lesions, 93 random effects analysis, 158	Seizure activity, 416, 418, 426, 563 Selective attention, 197 simulating noise, 145
temporal basis functions, 183	Selective averaging, 205
Retinotopic mapping, 6, 432	Semantic associations, 193, 195
Ridge regression, 280	see also Word processing/generation

beam mapping, 6 functional magnetic resonance imaging time series, 23 inference levels, 19 motion correction, 29 spatially regularized general linear model, 318 satistical parametric mapping, 15 topological inference, 237 coved-based morphometry, 95, 97 Sensory evoked potentials, 40 Sensory recurbingating, 6 Separable models, 150-151 empirical Bayes, 130 see also Hierarchical models Serial correlations, 121-122 Seri-level inference, 19, 237-238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 39 Spearable models, 150-151 singular value decomposition, 31, 41 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Skangel erfectes, 172, 195 Sitic raing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Singular value decomposition, 398-199 Sitic raing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 small deformation, 398-199 Sitic raing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 small deformation, 252, 262 temporal interpolation, 198-199 Sitic raing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 small deformation, 252, 263 anotomical constraints, (model averaging), 464-466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro' magnetic-encephalography simulated data, 372-374 407, 463 anatomical constraints, (model averaging), 464-466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro' magnetic-encephalography simulated data, 372-374 she quivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magnetic-receptalography simulated data, 370-372 model inversion, 154 model selection, 554-56 multiple constraints, 463-464 variational Bayes, 324 vorable-based repetition, 54 model selection, 554-56 multiple constraints, 463-464 variational Bayes, 324 vorable-based repetition, 57 significance probability maps, 322 precision, 330 model deformation, 37 significance probability maps, 322 model inversion, 31 realization, 41, 11, 12-13, 49, 63, 94, 225 Spatial medial teaching and teaching, 75 scalar parameters, 75 scaling parameters, 76 scaling parameter	Sensitivity, 140, 242, 246	Spatial correlation, 224–225 functional magnetic resonance imaging time series, 23 inference levels, 19 motion correction, 49 spatially regularized general linear model, 318 statistical parametric mapping, 15 topological inference, 237 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 97 sensory data/sensation, 476-477 recognition model, 477 recognition model, 479 recognition model, 470 recognition model, 470 recognition models, 50-151 compirical Bayes, 153 recognition models, 170 recognition,		- sectios, 25 inference levels, 19 motion correction, 49 spatially regularized general linear model, 318 statistical parametric mapping, 15 topological inference, 237 vowel-based morphometry, 95, 97 Sensory data/sensation, 476–477 recognition model, 477 Sensory evoked potentials, 40 Separable models, 150–151 complical Bayes, 133 see also Hierarchical models Serial correlations, 121–122 Set-level inference, 19, 237–238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Singlar factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skill reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 Skille from decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skill reference A-rays, 4 Since acquisition time, 198 Since transform decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skill reference A-rays, 4 Since acquisition time, 197 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 224 Smoothing, 11, 14 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 towel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 213, 323, 334, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magnete-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 572–375 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 435–464 specification, 435–464 specification, 435–464 specification, 435–464 specification, 435–464 specification, 435–464 spatial modele composation very situation, 76, 77 scaling parametric pips parametric amppling software, 75–77 scaling parametric pips generation, 84 substitution, 59 spatial reference probability mapping, 4, 14 functional/an	 *	• inference levels, 19 motion correction, 49 spatially regularized general linear model, 318 statistical parametric mapping, 15 topological inference, 257 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 97 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 93, 94 Sensory neuroimagiang, 6 Separable models, 150–151 empirical Bayss, 153 ser abs. Hierarchical models Serial correlations, 121–122 Set-level inference, 19, 237–238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shanon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simple effects, 172, 195 Singular value decomposition, 39, 943, 945, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Site timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 independence of observations, 92, 12 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-scries models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94 Spatial priors segmentation, 84-85, 93 deformation, 85 spatio-temporal autocolations, 71 model inversion, 11 realignment, 11, 12 Spatial sended, 14 Spatial sended and coregistration, 13–14 Spatial sended and coregistration, 13–14 Spatial sended and coregistration, 13–14 Spatial sended and accoregistration, 11 realignment to 11, 12 sequence of observations, 21, 12 autoregression coefficients, 315–316 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 333–318 model likewards protections, 316 regression coefficients, 315 precisions, 316 regression coefficients, 315 precisions, 315 results, 318–320 until data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 synthetic data, 318–319	8 8 motion correction, 49 spatially regularized general linear model, 318 satistical parametric mapping, 15 topological inference, 237 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 97 Sensory data/sensation, 476–477 recognition model, 477 Sensory evoked potentials, 40 Separable models, 150–151 empirical bayes, 133 see also Hierarchical models Serial correlations, 121–122 Set-level Inference, 19, 237–238, 239, 240 power analysis, 248, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simos method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Silica equisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Skie training correction, 120, 112 Small edformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 224 Smoothing, 11, 14 spatial correlations, 225 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 255, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 rowch-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 233, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, selector—imagenete-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 clectro-encephalography simulated data, 972–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 453–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 spatially regularized general linear model, 318 statistical parametric mapping, 15 topological inference, 237 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 97 Sensory data/sensation, 476-477 recognition model, 477 recognition model, 477 recognition model, 477 sensory evoked potentials, 40 Sensory neuroimgaing, 6 Serial correlations, 121-122 seale-level inference, 19, 227-238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simes method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198-199 Silice traing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 time frequence of observations, 226 labeb based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal audicorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based models see Thistributed mod statistical parametric mapping, 15 topological inference, 237 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 97 censory data/sensation, 476-477 recognition model, 477 sensory evoked potentials, 40 scansory neuroimgaing, 6 separable models, 150-151 empirical Bayes, 153 see also Hierarchical models serial correlations, 121-122 sel-level inference, 19, 237-238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 spann information, 59 schears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Sams method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Sice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 188-199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 124 statistical parametric mapping software, 75-77 scaling parameters, 76 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94 spatial priors segmentation, 84-85, 93 deformation, 85 spatial registration, 11, 14 functional/nantomical data coregistration, 13-14 Spatial smoothing, 11, 13-14 Spatial smoothing, 11, 13-14 Spatial smoothing, 11, 13-14 Spatial smoothing, 11, 121 approximate posteriors, 315-316, 321 autoregression coefficients, 315-316 contrasts, 317 dispersation approaches see Deformation models contrasts, 317 dispersation, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 225, 226 temporal maticorrelations, 225, 226 temporal maticorrelations, 225, 226 temporal maticorrelations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 225, 226 temporal maticorrelations, 225, 226 temporal maticorrelations, 225, 226 temporal maticorrelations, 225, 226 temporal maticorrelations, 226 spatial scale, 225 temporal maticorrelations, 226 spatial scale, 225 temporal maticorrelations, 226 spatial scale, 225 temporal maticorrelations, 225 considerable produced maticorrelat	spatially regularized general linear model, 318 topological inference, 237 voxel-based morphometry, 95, 97 Sensory data/sensation, 476-477 recognition model, 477 Sensory coked potentials, 40 Sensory neuroimgaing, 6 Sensory neuroimgaing, 6 Sensory neuroimgaing, 6 Sensory neuroimgaing, 6 Serial correlations, 121-122 Set-level inference, 19, 237-238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Sensai, infer-athical models Serial correlations, 121-122 Set-level inference, 19, 237-238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, infer-stubject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simes method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 Simple factor experimental design, 20 Siked phoundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericty in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 252, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 154 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 99, 94-95 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericty in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 252, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 154 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 99, 94-95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334-335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464-466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magpeto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370-372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455-456 multiple constraints, 463-464 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370-372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455-456 multiple constraints, 463-464 equivalent current dipole m voxeb-based morphometry, 95, 97 ersogrition model, 477 ersognition model, 150-151 empirical Bayes, 153 see also Hierarchical models ersial correlations, 121-122 Set-level inference, 19, 237-238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simes method, 248 Simes method, 248 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Silding boundary conditions, 71 Emporal interpolation imperiors, 226 Label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 284, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94-95 Smoothmes, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334-335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464-466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, 6ctro-/ magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372-374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370-372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455-456 multiple constraints, 463-64		, , Sensory data/sensation, 476-477 recognition model, 477 Sensory evoked potentials, 40 Sensory neuroimgaing, 6 Sensory neuroimgaing, 6 Sensory neuroimgaing, 6 Serial correlations, 121-121 see also Hierarchical models Serial correlations, 121-122 Serial correlations, 121-122 Serial correlations, 121-123 Serial correlations, 121-123 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sines method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Singular value decomposition basis functions, 70, 71 Singular factor experimental design, 20 Silice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198-199 Slice itming correction, 120, 182 Similar feator experimental design, 20 Siliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 255, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 182, 293 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94-95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334-335, 367, 377, 407, 463 ananomical constraints (model averaging), 464-466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, Selectro-/magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372-374 three-shold model see Distributed source localization models, Selectro-prepalography simulated data, 372-374 three-sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370-372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455-456 multiple constraints, 463-464 recognition model, 477 Sensory evoked potentials, 40 Sensory neuroimgaing, 6 Separable models, 150-151 see also Hierarchical models Serial correlations, 121-122 Set-level inference, 19, 237-238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simes method, 248 Simple reffects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slicic acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198-199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 spatial correlations, 225, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94 Spatial priors segmentation, 84-85, 93 deformation, 85 spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography and investion, 11, 14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 13-14 Spatial transforms, 11-14 model inversion, 11 model power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94 Spatial semosthing, 11, 13-14 Spatial amotoring, 11, 13-14 Spatial transforms, 11-14 model inversion, 11 model power analysis, 243 and terformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 13-14 Spatial smoothing, 11, 13-14 Spatial transforms, 11-14 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 11 model power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94-95 Smoothness estimation, 16 precisions, 316 regression coefficients, 315-316, 321 autoregression coefficients, 315-316 contrast, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313-318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315 regression coefficients, 315-316, 321 autoregression coefficients, 315-316 co	- ·
Sensory evoked potentials, 40 Sensory neuroimgains, 6 Separable models, 150-151 empirical Bayes, 153 see also Hierarchical models Serial correlations, 121-122 Set-level inference, 19, 237-238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shamon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simose method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198-199 Slice iming correction, 120, 182 Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 125, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 125, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 124, 182 woxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94-95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334-335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model a veraging), 464-466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372-374 three shiper shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372-372 nodel inversion, 11 model selection, 453-456 multiple constraints, 48-464 scaling parameters, 76 Spatial priors segmentation, 84-85, 39 spatial-remporal model for electro-encephalography, 311-14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 11, 14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 11, 14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 11, 14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 11,	·
Sensory neuroimgaing, 6 Separable models, 150–151 empirical Bayes, 153 see also Hierarchical models Serial correlations, 121–122 Set-level inference, 19, 237–238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simes method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 stice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 spatial region searches, 244 Smoothing, 11, 14 spatial ransforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxe-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, selectro-/magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 model inversion, 11 model selection, 453–456 multiple constraints, 464 spotship of the decire decire, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior probability maps, 323 posterior proba
Separable models, 150–151 empirical Bayes, 153 see also Hierarchical models Serial correlations, 121–122 Serial correlations, 212–122 Serial correlations, 223–238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sime transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 electro-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 11 readignment, 11, 12 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 readignment, 11, 12 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 readignment, 11, 12 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 readignment, 11, 12 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 readignment, 11, 12 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 readignment, 11, 12 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 readignment, 11, 12 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 readignment, 11, 12 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 readignment, 11, 13 spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 readig		~ - segmentation, 84–85, 93 see also Hierarchical models Serial correlations, 121–122 Set-level inference, 19, 237–238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simes method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 25, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 special sanction, 11, 14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 11, 14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 12–14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 13–14 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 realignment, 11, 12 spatial transforms, 11–12 spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 realignment, 11, 12 re see also Hierarchical models Serial correlations, 121–122 Set-level inference, 19, 237–238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Singular value decomposition, 30, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 electro-encephalography simulated data, 376–375 model inversion, 11 model selection, 453–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 453–456 multiple constraints, 463–464	•
Set-level inference, 19, 237-238, 239, 240 power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Singlicance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simes method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198-199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94-95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334-335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464-466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, 661, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372-374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370-372 model inversion, 11 model electron, 455-456 multiple constraints, (80-464) spatial registration, 11, 14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 11-14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 11, 14 functional/anatomical data coregistration, 12-14 Spatial regionsion, 11, 11 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 13 functional/anatomical data coregistration, power analysis, 243, 244 Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Significance Probability mapping, 4, 14 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Significance Exarys, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Slice indigno prorection, 120, 182 Slice and the formation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 nedel inversion, 11 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 11 model election, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 realignment, 11, 12 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 realignment, 11, 12 spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 realignment, 11, 12 spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 13 spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 13 spatial transforms, 11	Serial correlations, 121–122	spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography,
Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simes method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 296 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 84 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothese setimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 461–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 sultiple constraints, 463–465 multiple constraints, 463–465 multiple constraints, 463–465 multiple constraints, 463–465 spatial smoothing, 11, 13–14 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model urversion, 11 realignment, 11, 12 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 model design, 20, 315–316, 321 approximate posteriors, 315–316, 321 approximate posteriors, 315–316 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313–318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315 precisions, 315 regression coefficients, 315–316 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313–318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315 precisions, 31	Set-level inference, 19, 237–238, 239, 240	324–326, 330
Shannon information, 59 Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simes method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 296 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 84 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothese setimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 461–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 sultiple constraints, 463–465 multiple constraints, 463–465 multiple constraints, 463–465 multiple constraints, 463–465 spatial smoothing, 11, 13–14 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model urversion, 11 realignment, 11, 12 Spatial transforms, 11–14 model inversion, 11 model design, 20, 315–316, 321 approximate posteriors, 315–316, 321 approximate posteriors, 315–316 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313–318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315 precisions, 315 regression coefficients, 315–316 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313–318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315 precisions, 31	power analysis, 243, 244	Spatial registration, 11, 14
Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77 Significance probability mapping, 4, 14 Simes method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 223 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94-95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 461–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, selectro-magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 solve and the service of the servi		functional/anatomical data coregistration, 13–14
Simes method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198-199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94-95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334-335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464-466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electror-mcephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372-374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370-372 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455-456 multiple constraints, 463-464 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455-456 multiple constraints, 463-464 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 13 modal inversion, 11 model inversion, 31 paproximate posteriors, 315-316, 321 autoregression coefficients, 316 regression coefficients, 315-316 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313-318 modal inversion, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315-316 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313-318 modal inversion, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315-316 contrasts, 319 procisions, 316 regression coefficients, 315-316 contrast, 318 generative model, 313-318 modal likelihood, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 316-316 regressio	Shears, inter-subject registration, 76, 77
Simes method, 248 Simple effects, 172, 195 Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198-199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94-95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334-335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464-466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electror-mcephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372-374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370-372 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455-456 multiple constraints, 463-464 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455-456 multiple constraints, 463-464 model inversion, 11 model inversion, 13 modal inversion, 11 model inversion, 31 paproximate posteriors, 315-316, 321 autoregression coefficients, 316 regression coefficients, 315-316 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313-318 modal inversion, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315-316 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313-318 modal inversion, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315-316 contrasts, 319 procisions, 316 regression coefficients, 315-316 contrast, 318 generative model, 313-318 modal likelihood, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 316-316 regressio	Significance probability mapping, 4, 14	Spatial smoothing, 11, 13–14
Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, selectro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 mulliple constraints, 463–464 mulliple constraints, 463–464 mulliple constraints, 463–464 mulliple constraints, 463–465 mulliple constraints, 463–464 mulliple constraints, 463–465
Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71 Single factor experimental design, 20 Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, selectro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 mulliple constraints, 463–464 mulliple constraints, 463–464 mulliple constraints, 463–464 mulliple constraints, 463–465 mulliple constraints, 463–464 mulliple constraints, 463–465	Simple effects, 172, 195	model inversion, 11
Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527 Skull reference X-rays, 4 Silce acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Silce timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 special constraints, 463–464 multiple constraints, 463–464 special constraints, 463–464 multiple constraints, 463–464 special constraints, 463–464 sutoregression coefficients, 315–316 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313–318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315–316 contrastes, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313–318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 31 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315–316 contrastes, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313–318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 31 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315–316 contrastes, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313–318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315–316 contrastes, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313–318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 315 precisions, 315 results, 316 precisions, 316 precisions, 315 results, 316 preci	Sine transform basis functions, 70, 71	realignment, 11, 12
Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 mulliple constraints, 463—464 slice in the processor of the precisions, 316 precisions, 316 regression coefficients, 318 generative model, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 notation, 315 precisions, 315 regression coefficients, 314–315 regression coefficients, 314–315 regression coefficients, 314–315 regression coefficients, 314–315 regression coefficients, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	Single factor experimental design, 20	Spatially regularized general linear model, 313–321
Skull reference X-rays, 4 Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 mulliple constraints, 463—464 slice in the processor of the precisions, 316 precisions, 316 regression coefficients, 318 generative model, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 notation, 315 precisions, 315 regression coefficients, 314–315 regression coefficients, 314–315 regression coefficients, 314–315 regression coefficients, 314–315 regression coefficients, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	Singular value decomposition, 39, 493, 495, 527
Slice acquisition time, 197 temporal interpolation, 198–199 slice timing correction, 120, 182 contrasts, 317 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, see Circle-necephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 enul model selection, 455–456 enul time for electro-encephable graphy simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 enul time for electro-encephable graphy simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 enul time for electro-encephable graphy simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 enul time for electro-encephable graphy simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330 enerative model, 313–318 enerative model, 313–318 enerative model, 313–318 enerative model, 313–318 enerative model, 313–316 enerative model, 312–318 enerative model, 315 eneratis, 316 enerative model, 315–316 enerative model, 314 eve	Skull reference X-rays, 4
Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313–318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315 precisions, 315 regression coefficients, 314–315 results, 318–319 oull data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	Slice acquisition time, 197
Slice timing correction, 120, 182 Sliding boundary conditions, 71 Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 contrasts, 317 false positive rates, 318 generative model, 313–318 model likelihood, 314 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315 precisions, 315 regression coefficients, 314–315 results, 318–319 oull data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	-
Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 model inversion, 31 notation, 313 notation, 313 notation, 313 notation, 313 notation, 313 notation, 313 notation, 314 notation, 313 notation, 315 regression coefficients, 314–315 regulated responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 314–315 regulated responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 314–315 results, 318–320 regulated responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 314 results, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316 spatio-temporal		contrasts, 317
Small deformation approaches see Deformation models Small region searches, 234 Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 model inversion, 31 notation, 313 notation, 313 notation, 313 notation, 313 notation, 313 notation, 313 notation, 314 notation, 313 notation, 315 regression coefficients, 314–315 regulated responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 314–315 regulated responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 314–315 results, 318–320 regulated responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 314 results, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316 spatio-temporal		false positive rates, 318
Smoothing, 11, 14 independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 notation, 313 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315 results, 318–320 event-related responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315 results, 318–320 event-related responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 314 autoregression coefficients, 316 results, 318–320 event-related responses, 319–320 null data, 318 spitchemporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 3	Small deformation approaches see Deformation models	generative model, 313–318
independence of observations, 226 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 priors, 314 autoregression coefficients, 315 precisions, 315 regression coefficients, 314–315 regression coefficients, 315 precisions, 315 regression coefficients, 315 regression coefficients, 315 regression coefficients, 316 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 approximate posteriors, 328–329 sevent-related responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 approximate posteriors, 328–329 approximate posteriors, 328–329 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior probability maps, 323 motation, 324 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	Small region searches, 234	model likelihood, 314 label based registration, 64 non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 autoregression coefficients, 315 results, 318–310 event-related responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior probability maps, 323 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 autoregression coefficients, 314–315 results, 318–310 event-related responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior probability maps, 323 model selection, 455–456 posterior probability maps, 323	Smoothing, 11, 14	notation, 313
non-sphericity in time-series models, 141 spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 314 spatial correlations, 315 regression coefficients, 314–315 results, 318–320 event-related responses, 319–320 event-related responses, 319–320 results, 318–329 synthetic data, 318–319 synthetic	independence of observations, 226	priors, 314
spatial correlations, 225, 226 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 243 multiple constraints, 463–464 regression coefficients, 314–315 results, 318–320 event-related responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 multiple constraints, 463–464	label based registration, 64	autoregression coefficients, 315 temporal autocorrelations, 184 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 results, 318–320 event-related responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 multiple constraints, 463–464 results, 318–320 event-related responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	non-sphericity in time-series models, 141	precisions, 315 threshold power analysis, 243 voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 event-related responses, 319–320 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316 spatio-temporal deconvo	spatial correlations, 225, 226	regression coefficients, 314–315
voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94–95 Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 mechanical constraints, 463–464 null data, 318 synthetic data, 318–319 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316	temporal autocorrelations, 184	results, 318–320
Smoothness estimators, 16 Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 synthetic data, 318–319 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	threshold power analysis, 243	event-related responses, 319–320
Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377, 407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316–317 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	voxel-based morphometry, 92, 93, 94-95	null data, 318
407, 463 anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 thresholding, 317 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	Smoothness estimators, 16	synthetic data, 318–319
anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464–466 distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 implementation, 316 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	Source reconstruction, 8, 11, 211, 323, 324, 334–335, 367, 377,	spatio-temporal deconvolution, 316-317
distributed models see Distributed source localization models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 posterior density, 328 model selection, 455–456 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	407, 463	thresholding, 317 models, electro-/magneto-encephalography dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323–335 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	anatomical constraints (model averaging), 464-466	variational Bayes, 315, 318, 320 dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574 electro-encephalography simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 approximate posteriors, 328–329 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	distributed models see Distributed source localization	implementation, 316
electro-encephalography regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 regression coefficients, 329–330 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	models, electro-/magneto-encephalography	Spatio-temporal model for electro-encephalography, 323-335
simulated data, 372–374 three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 Bayesian inference, 328 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	dynamic causal models, 561, 562, 574	approximate posteriors, 328–329
three sphere shell model, 364 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 model inversion, 11 model selection, 455–456 multiple constraints, 463–464 generative model, 324–326 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 posterior probability maps, 323 precision, 330	electro-encephalography	regression coefficients, 329-330 equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388 implementation, 330–331 notation, 324 notation, 324 model inversion, 11 posterior density, 328 model selection, 455–456 posterior probability maps, 323 multiple constraints, 463–464 precision, 330	simulated data, 372–374	Bayesian inference, 328
magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370–372 notation, 324 posterior density, 328 model selection, 455–456 posterior probability maps, 323 multiple constraints, 463–464 precision, 330	three sphere shell model, 364	generative model, 324–326
model inversion, 11 posterior density, 328 model selection, 455–456 posterior probability maps, 323 multiple constraints, 463–464 precision, 330	equivalent current dipole methods, 367, 377, 388	implementation, 330–331
model selection, 455–456 posterior probability maps, 323 multiple constraints, 463–464 precision, 330	magneto-encephalography simulated data, 370-372	notation, 324 multiple constraints, 463–464 precision, 330	model inversion, 11	posterior density, 328 model selection, 455-456	posterior probability maps, 323 variational Bayes, 324 principal component analysis, 328	multiple constraints, 463-464	precision, 330 variational Bayes, 324	principal component analysis, 328

qualitative results, 331–334	timing, 200, 208 comparison with LORETA, 331–332	word processing, 25–26 event-related potentials simulation, 332–333	Stochastic processes, 4
*	neuron model, 395–397 face processing data analysis, 333–334 spatial priors, 324–326, 330	neuronal codes, 526 temporal priors, 323, 326–328, 330	population density models, 392
damped sinusoids, 326–327	Stochastic study design, 26, 28, 201, 203, 204, 207 dimensionality, 328	non-stationary, 26
wavelets, 327–328	null events, 205, 208
variational Bayes, 324, 328, 333	stationary, 26, 27
Spatio-temporal models, 11	Stroke, 13
functional magnetic resonance imaging see Spatially	Structural equation modelling, 41–42, 542, 600
regularized general linear model	effective connectivity, 514–515
Spearman correlation test, 259	Sulci, conservation/differences between subjects, 94
Specificity, 242	Sum of squares, 167 brain mapping, 6	Summary statistics spatially regularized general linear model, 318	error variance estimation, 28
Spherical head model, 364, 365	partitioned errors for multi-way analysis of variance, anatomically constrained, 365	174–175
Sphericity assumption, 140, 142	random effects analysis, 157-158, 160-161, measures of departure, 142–143	162–163 violations see Non-sphericity	positron emission tomography, 162-163
Spiny stellate neurons, 417, 418, 423, 424, 564, 565	Synaptic activity, 492
Split plot design, 116	balloon model, 341, 343
SPM2, 94	blood flow relationship, 344–345
SPM5, 84, 85, 89, 94, 316	drivers versus modulators, 432
Standard anatomical space, 6, 11	effective connectivity, 476
State-effects, 197, 206	efficacy, 476, 512, 524
State-space models, 447–448, 508	haemodynamic model, 344–345, 348, 350
Statistical models, 32, 34–38	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
Statistical non-parametric mapping, 15, 254	neural mass models, 417, 418
Statistical parametric mapping, 20, 253	event-related potentials, 424
affine registration, 77	neuron model, 394–395 classical inference, 34	population density models, 395 degrees of freedom, 143, 145, 146	plasticity, 475 error variances, 5	Synchronized activity, 562
general linear model, 14, 16–18	neuronal codes, 525, 526–527 neuronal interactions, 522, 523, 528 historical aspects, 4–5, 6, 14	neuronal transients, 528 limitations, 276	System identification, 508–509
magneto-/electro-encephalography, 214, 215
mass-univariate models, 212, 213–214	t contracts 19 126 202
non-linear registration, 77	t-contrasts, 18, 136, 203 non-sphericity adjustment, 141, 143–144, 145	construction/testing, 131–132 model whitening approach, 146	t-maps, 3, 5, 15, 20
positron emission tomography, 4–5	t -statistic, 16, 34, 118, 121, 140, 160, 253, principles, 10–30, 34	276, 279
random field theory, 15	computation for contrasts construction, 132 regionally specific effects, 15	general linear model, 16, 18, 105, 106 sensitivity, 15	positron emission tomography, 112
spatial normalization, 75–77	serial correlations, 122
scaling parameters, 76	t-test, 16, 96, 97, 223
voxel-based morphometry, 93, 95–96	one-sample, 117, 118, 162, 277
Stimulus onset asynchrony, 200, 201, 205	paired, 117, 166 blood-oxygenation-level-dependent (BOLD)	two-sample, 102, 105, 117, 118, 131, 166 response, 178, 179	Temporal autocorrelations, 141, 142, 143, event-related designs, 187-188, 197, 204-205, 208	184–185, 199 haemodynamic response function, 181	functional magnetic resonance imaging, 6, 253 stochastic designs, 204, 207–208	pre-colouring, 184 study design issues, 26–27	pre-whitening, 184–185
	-

Temporal basis functions, 36–37, 179, 180–183, 199	linear model convolution model, 6–7	down sampling, 120–121 electro-/magneto-encephalography	experimental timing, 119 distributed model, 378, 380–381, 388	grand mean scaling, 119
hierarchical model, 218	high-resolution basis functions, 120
spatio-temporal model, 325, 327–328	movement-related effects, 121
F-contrasts, 182, 183	number of scans, 119
finite impulse response, 180–181	parametric modulation, 120
Fourier sets, 180–181	proportional scaling, 119
gamma functions, 181	regressors, 118, 119, 120, 121 haemodynamic response function, 179, 186	scan number, 118
non-linear convolution models, 186	magneto-/electro-encephalography, 214, 215
Temporal filtering, 183–184, 200	event-related responses, 211 functional magnetic resonance imaging, 122–123	multivariate autoregressive models, 535
general linear model, 16–17	non-sphericity approaches, 141
Temporal independent component analysis, 39	serial correlations, 286, 287–288, 289
Temporal interpolation, slice acquisition time correction,	estimation, 287–288
198–199	filtering, 23–24
Temporal priors, 323, 326–328, 330	Tissue classification
damped sinusoids, 326–327	bias correction, 83, 84
wavelet models, 327–328	image segmentation, 81, 82
Temporal realignment, 12	Tissue probability maps, 81, 82
Tensor-based morphometry, 14	deformation, 85
Thalamo-cortical connections, 416, 421, 431, 475, 501	optimization, 86, 88
Thalamus, 84, 410, 574	segmentation, 85, 93–94
Thin-plate splines, 71	spatial priors, 84–85
Three letter acronyms, 8	Topological inference, 10, 18-20, 237-245
Thresholds, 224	anatomically closed/open hypotheses, 19 comparison of methods, 236	clusters, 237–238 false discovery rate, 235–236	general formulation, 239–240 maximum spatial extent of test statistic, 233-234	historical aspects, 4 maximum test statistic, 232–233	levels of inference, 19 small region searches, 234	peaks, 237–238
permutation tests, 260	sets, 237–238
single threshold test, 258, 259	Total intracranial volume, 96
suprathreshold cluster tests, 258–259	Transmembrane currents, 407 posterior probability maps, 301	Transmembrane potential power analysis, 242–243	modelling, 407–408, 410 random field theory, 226, 227, 228, 238-241, 276	neural mass models, 417, 418 regional hypotheses (corrected/uncorrected p values),	Trial duration
229–230	epoch models, 197
spatially regularized general linear model, 317	event models, 196–197
Time series	Trilinear (first-order hold) interpolation, 50 dynamic causal models, 541, 545	Type I error see False positives functional magnetic resonance imaging, 10–30, 179	Univariate models, 506
covariance components estimation
(expectation maximization), 287	77 - 1 111.
data analysis, 10, 15–17	Variability
epoch-related studies, 26	anatomical, 11 error variances, 141, 146	between subject, 7, 14, 28, 94, 156, 164, 199 event-related studies, 26	random effects analysis, 156
haemodynamic response function, 23	within-subject (between scan), 7, 28, 156, 164, 199 noise, 22	Variable resolution electromagnetic tomography (VARETA), non-linear models, 24–25	324, 329 Variance signal (neuronally mediated haemodynamic change), 22	Variance partitioning, 171 spatially coherent confounds, 24	transformations, 164–165 study design, 22–28	within-modality image registration/realignment, 55

Variational Bayes, 303–311, 313, 447, 456 applications, 306–309 effect size estimation, 309 univariate densities, 306–307, 311 factorized approximations, 304–305, 307–308 free-form approximations, 305, 309 Gibbs sampling, 309 Kullback-Liebler divergence, 303, 304, 306, 316 Laplace approximation, 305, 306, 606–610 model evidence, free energy relationship, 303–304 model inference, 305–306, 308–309 non-linear models, 610–611 notation, 303 parameters of component posteriors, 305	Jacobian adjustment, 92, 94 objectives, 92, 94 principles, 92 segmentation, 92, 93–94 sensitivity, 95, 97 smoothing, 92, 93, 94–95 false-positive results, 97 spatial normalization, 94 statistical modelling, 95–97 confounds, 96, 97 global normalization, 96 inference, 96–97
spatially regularized general linear model, 315, 316, 318, 320	Warping templates, 4
spatio-temporal model for	Wavelet models, 327–328
electro-/magneto-encephalography, 324, 328, 333	Wavelet transforms, 253 theory, 303–306	temporal priors for event-related potential
Variational free energy, 447	modelling, 327–328
Verbal fluency, 115, 161–163, 298, 299, 494–496, 498	Weighted minimum norm see also Word processing/generation	L-curve approach, 369, 375, 378
Viscous fluid registration methods, 72	source localization, 388
Visual cortex, 341, 343, 345, 406, 410, 421, 432, 437, 472, 473,	Bayesian inversion models, 367, 368–369
475, 478, 481, 524, 527, 542, 563	distributed models, 377, 378, 388 category selection pathway, 570–571	Wernicke's area, 20, 553
inter-hemispheric integration, 579–583	White matter modulation by attentional mechanisms, 485–486	electrical conductivity, 352 orientation tuning, 398	image segmentation, 84, 85
retinotopic mapping, 6, 432	segmentation models, 93 sensory evoked potentials modelling, 40	Whitening the data (filtering)
Visual motion processing/visual attention, 20, 21, 22, 33,	covariance components estimation, 146
40–41, 265, 298–299, 301, 451, 472, 512, 514, 515, 516, 520,	functional magnetic resonance imaging time series, 23–24
537, 556–559 Visual object recognition, 194, 195
Visual processing 476, 477, 501	drifts removal, 24 non-sphericity, 141, 146
Visual processing, 476, 477, 501 Visual-evoked responses, 23	Wilcoxon test, 259
Volterrra series formulation, 7, 25–26, 594–595	Wilk's statistic (Wilk's Lambda), 213, 503, 504, 505 effective connectivity modelling, 485–486, 522, 524, 525	Windkessel theory/model, 343, 344, 345, 350, 443 generalized convolution models, 519–520, 521	see also Balloon model input-state-output models, 37, 444–445, 524	Windowed autocorrelation matrix, 381
neuronal transients, 524, 525, 526	Windowed sinc interpolation, 50–51 non-linear convolution models, 186, 207–208	Within-subject analysis of variance see Repeated measures non-linear evoked responses (balloon model), 341, 342, 343	analysis of variance haemodynamic model, 346–347, 444–445	Word processing/generation, 22, 25–26, 186–187, 289, 293, 319, Voxel-based analysis/models, 3, 4, 10, 11, 14	346, 348, 445, 449–450, 488, 494–496, 498, 505, 550–552, famlily-wise error, 223–224	553–556
hierarchical models, 35	modality/category factor interactions, 134-135
spatial normalization, 4	multiple subject data, 163 topological inference, 4, 18-20 Voxel-based morphometry, 14, 92-98, 243 clinical applications, 97–98	Zero-order hold (nearest neighbour) resampling, 50 data preparation, 93–95	Zooms, 76, 77